New Ships Planned For Australia Run To Cost $14,000,000

Sir Edward Beatty, President of C.P.R., Announces That Liners Are Contemplated For B.C.-Australasian Route of 25,000 Tons Each and Speed of 22 Knots; Action on Proposals Expected Next Month

To Take Care Of Orient Service

The two passenger liners which are contemplated for the Canadian-Australasian service between Victoria, Vancouver, Auckland and Sydney will be modern ships of approximately 25,000 tons gross, with a sea speed of twenty-two knots and, if built, will cost about $14,000,000, stated Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, today when questioned about new ship construction contemplated for the Pacific.

"The report of the Imperial Shipping Committee respecting the desirability of maintaining and improving the present steamship service between Victoria, Vancouver, New Zealand and Australia is expected to be completed next month, and, when it is, the imperial authorities and government of the Dominions involved will be asked to express their views and their willingness to grant financial assistance," said Sir Edward.

"It has always been my opinion that the route constitutes an essential link between Great Britain and the Far East, and that Canada is the natural bridge," he said.

"I am very hopeful that the Dominion government will take this view and, if they do and the necessary financial support is forthcoming, the Canadian-Australasian Line is prepared to let contracts."

The Canadian Pacific Railway has a controlling interest in the Canadian-Australasian Line.

Karpis Witness Given Sentence

Man Who Helped Convict Twenty-nine Abductors Jailed in Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—Four three-year sentences to run concurrently were imposed on Byron Bolton, erstwhile Barker-Karpis gangster, who sent fifteen of his underworld pals to prison, by Federal District Judge M. M. Joyce today.

Bolton, star witness for the government in the trials of various gang members convicted of the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer and the $100,000 William Hamm kidnappings, had pleaded guilty to each of three abduction charges. He pleaded innocent to a fourth charge.

Judge Joyce sentenced him to serve three years on each of the four counts, the sentences to run concurrently.

George F. Sullivan, U.S. District Attorney, urged the court to be lenient, explaining to Judge Joyce that Bolton's testimony enabled the government to indict twenty-nine kidnapers, among them Alvin Karpis and Arthur (Doc) Barker, gang leaders now serving life in Alcatraz.

Canadian Press from Havas, Seville, Spain, Aug. 25.—The shadow of an acute food shortage in Madrid and financial ruin are deepening hourly around the Loyalist government, according to broadcast dispatches intercepted here today.

Other dispatches said fires were raging in various sectors of Malaga, Loyalist stronghold in southeastern Spain.

Bread supplies and other prime food necessities are falling fast in Madrid, the wireless messages were said to have reported.

Loyalist militiamen demonstrated near the Puerta del Sol, in Madrid, demanding the government give more exact news regarding the progress of military operations, other messages said.

U.S. WOMAN IN POLISH JAIL

Mrs. F. Atkinson, Minneapolis, Will Be Freed on Currency Charges

Associated Press
Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 25.—The Polish government tonight informed the United States embassy that Mrs. Frederick Atkinson of Minneapolis, Minn., would be released from jail and charges of currency irregularities would be dropped.

The embassy was not informed when Mrs. Atkinson would be freed. She has been in jail at Ostrow for two days.

United States officials were informed by the Polish government that reports she already had been sentenced were erroneous.

The embassy said plans for a vigorous protest had been abandoned because they had learned Mrs. Atkinson was held only for technical violations of the Polish laws governing exportation of currency.

BANK DRAFT

Reports here stated Mrs. Atkinson crossed into Poland from Germany, to which country she was returning when stopped by customs officials.

A bank draft she carried with her, it was asserted, was the cause of her detention. Presumably it was held in violation of stringent Polish customs regulations.

The Polish government sought to restrict foreign exchange dealings by decree last April. Exportation of money was prohibited.

Recently, the government announced it would refund dollars confiscated from United States travelers under the regulations.

Mrs. Atkinson is the wife of Frederick G. Atkinson, Minneapolis milling executive.

Advised of her detention, Atkinson appealed to the State Department at Washington for an investigation.

She is a former president of the Wellesley College Women's Club. She is now president of the Minnesota Birth Control League and a national vice-president of the American Birth Control League.

Legislation to Enable Government to Carry Out Plans Foreshadowed in Speech From Throne; Drought Problems; Public Parks Galleries for Opening.

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Aug. 25.—Legislation providing for further action regarding introduction of Social Credit principles in Alberta will be introduced at the session, it was forecast today in the Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor W. L. Walsh at the opening of the special session of the Legislature.

Debt adjustment legislation, the reduction of interest and "such other matters as may be deemed necessary for the good and welfare of our people," will be dealt with, the speech stated.

The only Social Credit Government in the world faces serious drought problems as it begins its second session.

Only simple formalities were observed as members of the Assembly congregated.

GALLERIES PACKED
Although traditional ceremony was missing, packed galleries indicated intense interest in the second special session of the provincial Legislature ever held. In July, 1922, a special session discussed formation of a wheat board for six days.

The session was declared officially open shortly after 2 p.m. P.S.T., when Lieut.-Gov. W. L. Walsh read the Speech from the Throne. He was accompanied by his secretary, Capt. C. V. Dacre.

The government hopes the session will be completed before the end of the week.

TEXT OF ADDRESS
The address was read by the Lieutenant-Governor as follows:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the Legislative Assembly.
"I welcome you to the second session of the Eighth Legislative Assembly."

"Since the last session, the province of Alberta has been honored with a visit from His Excellency, the Rt. Hon. Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, and the Lady Tweedsmuir. On that occasion, our citizens most heartily welcomed these distinguished visitors and enthusiastically showed their loyal admiration and respect for them."

"Later in the year, my government and the people may be privileged again to entertain Their Excellencies on their return to the province."

DROUGHT RELIEF
"On account of the calamitous drought which occurred this summer throughout the south and the east of the province, and because of the grave economic conditions resulting therefrom, my government decided to call this special session of the Legislature to deal with the distressing conditions prevailing and to consider such legislation as will place the province in a position to cope with this difficult situation."

"At this session, further action in regard to the introduction of the Social Credit principles, the debt adjustment legislation, the reduction of interest, and such other matters as may be deemed necessary for the good and welfare of our people will be submitted for your careful consideration."

"I leave you now, with confidence that you will faithfully discharge your duties and your responsibilities with wisdom and dispatch, praying that Divine Providence will guide and bless your work."

GERMANY'S BIG ARMY INCREASE STIRS EUROPE

Move May Grow in France For Three-year Conscription Term; Hitler Will Have 1,200,000 in Uniform in 1937

Canadian Press from Havas, Paris, Aug. 25.—Premier Leon Blum, Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, Defence Minister Edouard Daladier and probably the army, navy and aviation chiefs of staffs will meet as soon as possible to study the situation created by Germany's increase in the conscription term from one to two years, it was learned today.

News of this step followed a prediction rightists would agitate for an extension of the French military service period from two to three years as a result of Chancellor Hitler's decree.

Premier Blum was expected to oppose the rightist pressure however.

SOVIET ARMY
Observers here attributed the German move to the Soviet Union's decision August 11 to lower the age requirements of military recruits to nineteen years, thus permitting increase of the Red Army to 3,000,000 men if the Soviet leaders should use all available effectives.

The French army, compared with the huge Russian army and a German army of about 1,000,000 men, would possess only 5,000,000 effectives, of whom 200,000 would be young recruits serving a two-year training period, it was pointed out here.

NO MANDATE FOR ETHIOPIA

Britain Declines Invitation of Sixty Chiefs Near Sudan Border

Canadian Press
London, Aug. 25.—Great Britain has declined to act on the request of native chiefs that she intervene for a League of Nations mandate for western Ethiopia.

Sixty Galla chiefs, in revolt against Italian rule, appealed to the British government to intervene and to accept a League mandate for western Ethiopia. The territory, said to cover 50,000 square miles, includes one of the most fertile tracts in east Africa. It borders the Sudan.

Britain declined to act on the petition, taking the ground that to accept a League mandate would be contrary to her declared attitude in the Ethiopian dispute, namely, that she was not seeking material advantages.

Man Hunted As Cattle Thief

Canadian Press
Ivanhoe, Ont., Aug. 25.—Police today hunted through this isolated bush country district twenty miles north of Belleville for a man believed to have stolen forty-five head of pure-bred Holstein cattle, one of the biggest cattle thefts known here.

The stock was pastured on an island in the Trent River. It was believed the cattle were stolen during the week-end and driven by road to an isolated hideout to be shipped to Toronto.

Police investigated residents' reports of a herd being moved at night, recovered the cattle and began the hunt for the man believed to have committed the theft.

H.M.S. Apollo Carries Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir to Vancouver After Ten Days on Vancouver Island; Yesterday Was Busy Day

Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir this morning said farewell to Vancouver Island after a ten-day holiday, half of which was spent in Victoria.

At 11 o'clock H.M.S. Apollo, flagship of the West Indies Station of the Royal Navy, cast off from the Esquimalt drydock landing wharf and headed out into the straits carrying the vice-regal party to Vancouver on the first leg of the journey back to Ottawa.

Since their return to Victoria from Campbell River on Sunday evening, Their Excellencies had been kept busily engaged with a variety of functions.

Yesterday morning they made a brief official call on Admiral Sir Matthew Best, commander-in-chief of the West Indies Station, aboard the Apollo, after which they drove out to Spencerwood, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer, for lunch.

In the afternoon they were guests of honor at a garden party at Government House attended by more than 500 people.

EFFORTS MADE TO END STRIKES

Negotiations at Nine Seattle and Tacoma Furniture Factories

Associated Press
Tacoma, Aug. 25.—Committees of employees, representing 1,300 workers in nine Seattle and Tacoma furniture factories, continued to negotiate today with employers in an effort to settle their strike.

The principal point of difference, a member of the Northwest Furniture Manufacturers' Association said today, was the closed shop. Both union and employer representatives said there was no dispute over hours and wages.

Seattle and Tacoma members of the Manufacturers' Association met yesterday in Tacoma, but announced no progress toward settlement.

Five Seattle factories, employing 400 men, were closed yesterday. Four Tacoma firms, with 800 employees, were shut down a week ago.

Move To Ease Civil War Ferocity

BRITISH-FRENCH PLANS FOR SPAIN

Delegates Meet at French Border and Endeavor to End Some of Most Violent Acts Harassing Both Sides on Peninsula

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 25.—The British and French governments now are working together to reduce the ferocity of the civil war in Spain.

Ambassadors accredited to Madrid, meeting at Hendaye, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, under the chairmanship of their doyen, Senor Manilla of Argentina, prepared an outline of proposals which Sir Henry Chilton, the British ambassador, forwarded to London. The proposals are being considered here.

Simultaneously the British and French governments are consulting on means of ending such atrocities as the shooting of civilian prisoners. NO MEDIATION

The move does not, however, extend to an offer of mediation in the dispute itself. It is not expected to end the civil war. There is hope, however, that as a sequel to an agreement on an arms embargo the great powers may be induced to make such joint representations as will end the more revolting of the Spanish barbarities.

VIEW COMPLICATIONS
The Anglo-French proposals were believed to have been discussed at a morning session of the foreign affairs committee of the British cabinet. The meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee lasted nearly three hours, and, in addition to considering international complications of the Spanish war, the members were reported to have discussed projected reform of the League of Nations.

Prime Minister Baldwin did not attend, but kept in constant touch with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

ITALIAN ATTITUDE
Associated Press
Rome, Aug. 25.—A spokesman for the Italian press ministry tonight said Italy considers an international neutrality accord on Spain is now in effect.

This was true, the spokesman declared, because all the governments involved have shown a disposition to put it into effect.

Nevertheless, he pointed out there had been no formal notice as yet that the accord, sponsored by France, was active.

NO FORMAL PACT
No formal signing of the agreement is planned, the spokesman added. He explained the Italian view that there was no specific moment for the agreement to go into effect. All Italy had to do, he said, was to continue to refuse approval for export permits on arms shipments to Spain.

The spokesman warned, however, that the moment Italy perceives any countries involved in the act of violating the accord she will consider it automatically ended.

Germany's Big Army Increase Stirs Europe

RUSSIAN OPINION
Moscow, Aug. 25.—Germany's decree increasing the country's compulsory military training period, from one to two years, the authoritative newspaper Pravda asserted today, "is a serious measure proving how intensively Germany prepares for war."

Speculating editorially on how long German finances could stand the strain of military expansion, Pravda asserted "the terrible spectre of inflation confronts the country."

ITALIAN OPINION
Rome, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press from Havas).—Chancellor Hitler's decree doubling the length of military service should be considered a new bulwark to the peace of western Europe rather than a cause of alarm, Italian semi-official spokesmen said today.

The described the German move as a "curative remedy" to offset the danger of the "Bolshevik Menace" so vividly brought into the open by the Spanish revolt.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 25.—Europe moves steadily down the path of powder politics. On every hand armaments multiply. Chancellor Hitler's decree raising from one to two years the period of army service in Germany will, it is feared, be followed by more German troops in the Rhineland.

"The action taken by Hitler is a grave one," writes Major Temperley, military correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. "It is bound to make the German army the most formidable in Europe, apart from that of Russia, and much more ready than it has previously been to strike a rapid blow."

While extension of the period of compulsory service does not increase the number of men available for war, it does enormously increase the efficiency of the army and facilities for mobilization by increasing the number of divisions and regiments in time of peace.

FRENCH FEELING
French opinion, calmed by the German acceptance of the Spanish arms embargo proposal, again is increasingly nervous.

In the view of The Paris Petit Journal, Hitler's move means Great Britain will be challenged by Germany for the title "policeman of Europe."

The Petit Journal adds: "The declaration of neutrality in the Spanish affair loses much of its value. The German fleet is already on its way to the Mediterranean. Tomorrow a German army 1,000,000 strong will believe itself in a position to be policeman of Europe."

Nazi Germany puts the blame on Soviet Russia, which a fortnight ago reduced from twenty-one to nineteen the age at which military service begins, thus raising its active strength to roughly 2,000,000 within four years.

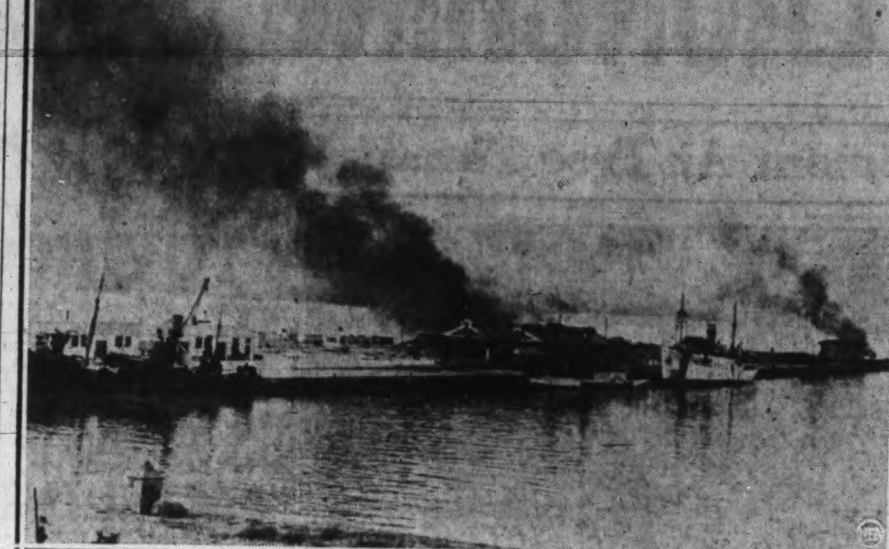

SAYS WAR NOT WANTED
"This nation does not want war," writes The Volkischer Beobachter, official Nazi organ. "Every foreigner who during the Olympic Games positively had the opportunity of looking into our hearts knows that is the purest truth. Germany wishes to protect herself from war, therefore she is taking precautions. The step which we have taken leads, like all steps toward freedom, to new sacrifices and new labors."

ARMY OF 1,000,000
Canadian Press from Havas
Berlin, Aug. 25.—The largest German army since the Great War—1,200,000 men—will be under colors in the early summer of next year, it was revealed today as War Minister General Werner von Blomberg promulgated an order doubling the term of military service as decreed by Chancellor Hitler, it was reported. The Reichstag might be provoked to approve the new military decree.

began military training on October 1, 1935, will be kept in the army until October 1, 1937. General von Blomberg announced.

The new military service decree will gradually increase the Reich army's strength until October 1, 1937, after which time the effective will gradually decrease until October 1, 1938, when they will total 800,000 men.

The army on June 1, 1937, will consist approximately of the following: 300,000 long-term volunteers who have already received intensive military training; 500,000 recruits of the class of 1914 called to the colors October 1, 1935, and who by next June will have had twenty-one months' training; 400,000 young soldiers of the class of 1915, to be called October 1, 1936, and who by next June will have received nine months' training.

On October 1, 1937, the total under arms will drop to 1,000,000 as a result of the release of the class of 1914 and its replacement by the class of 1916.

The Fuehrer's decree re-establishing Germany's pre-war position as Europe's biggest military power was issued yesterday to an accompaniment of Nazi charges the world is threatened by "the chaos of Communist catastrophe."

Alberta House Launching Social Credit

FIRST ACT
Premier Abernethy introduced the first bill, one to amend the Mothers' Allowance Act. Then on motion of the Premier, the House agreed to take the Speech from the Throne into consideration at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

The reply to the throne speech will be moved by Fred Anderson (S.C., Calgary) and seconded by N. B. James (S.C., Acadia).

The House then adjourned until 3 p.m. tomorrow.

OPPOSITION'S ATTITUDE
It was understood yesterday and today as the members gathered that opposition blocs will co-operate with the government in speeding the session's work, but their limited numbers will fight "any effort to put over any new radical, unnecessary and harmful legislation such as being rumored." J. J. Bowen, Liberal House leader, and D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, outlined their positions yesterday.

"We probably shall have some questions to ask regarding actions and intentions of the government to date, with particular attention to scrip and registration for dividends," said Mr. Bowen.

The House is composed of fifty-six Social Credit members, five Liberals and two Conservatives.

PRISON BREAK IS FRUSTRATED
Five Inmates of Colorado Jail Planned to Kidnap Warden; Arms and Ammunition Found

Associated Press
Canon City, Colo., Aug. 25.—Warden Roy Best said he had frustrated a plot today of five desperate prisoners in the Colorado prison who planned to escape by kidnapping him and holding him hostage.

Best and a squad of guards confiscated two .38 automatics and 100 rounds of ammunition in a new building being constructed in the prison yard. The five convicts were placed in solitary confinement.

"We received information three weeks ago that these men would attempt their escape Sunday," Best said. "We located the guns and ammunition and then watched them carefully. Three times they moved them on us, but we knew all the time where the guns and ammunition were. We were just waiting for them to start something.

"The plot was to grab me and hold me in one of the buildings as a hostage while the convicts demanded their freedom. I believe even if the plot had not been disclosed there would not have been any great property damage, such as occurred in the Colorado prison riot of 1929, but somebody might have been killed."

Eight guards and five convicts were killed in the 1929 riot.

LIFE TERM MEN
The convicts placed in solitary confinement are:
Lemmo Grose, serving a life term for murder at Pueblo in 1914.
Ray McGuey, twenty years for aggravated robbery at Denver.
Charles Carlisle, life term for rape in Sagusche County.
Joe Bean, fifteen years for aggravated robbery at Denver.
Joe Casey, a short term for grand larceny at Boulder.

MONEY SEIZED AT BARCELONA
Canadian Press from Havas
Barcelona, Aug. 25.—Catalan authorities today continued their search of homes of suspected fascists, confiscating funds to aid the fascist cause in the Spanish revolution. At the home of Joseph Butiny, fascist leader who fled to France when the revolt broke out, 37,000,000 pesetas ($4,810,000) was seized.

The government announced creation of a special court of "popular justice" to sit in judgment on fascists.

The communists also did not explain why the action was so sudden. A previous announcement had said the prisoners would have seventy-two hours of grace.

Included among those who died were Leon Kamenetz and Gregory Zinoviev, once members with Dictator Joseph Stalin of the triumvirate at the head of the Soviet Union during the illness of Nikolai Lenin.

An Oslo dispatch yesterday said: Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Bolshevik leader, now in Norway, said he stood ready to answer charges he had fomented a plot to overthrow "the Soviet, regime and incidentally kill Dictator Joseph Stalin."

Trotzky said he was willing to appear before an impartial Norwegian court and answer the charges leveled against him at the Moscow trial of the sixteen conspirators.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL Leaves on Warship

He referred to the "wonderful natural growth on Vancouver Island," and added a warning: "Take care you do not let it disappear too soon. See that you protect the growth for the good of your island."

The Governor-General saw in the planting of a tree a parable of human life. "You can plant a tree in fertile soil, you can tend it and care for it. But after all, it depends on Providence whether it grows or not. Is it not true of human life?"

"I hope," he added, that when I come back here this tree will be at least five inches thick."

Mayor David Leeming spoke briefly at the beginning of the ceremony. Alderman James Adam, chairman of the city parks board, informed His Excellency that a commemorative plaque would be forwarded to Ottawa shortly.

MOVE TO BUILD MORE HOMES

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—While there seemed little likelihood of any immediate arrangements whereby a 100 per cent credit may be provided for Canadians wishing to build homes under the Dominion Housing Act, Finance Minister Charles Dunning, after discussions yesterday with officials of lending institutions, said efforts would be initiated to make the act more accessible to those desiring to build low-cost homes.

Officials of a dozen prominent lending institutions conferred with the minister and his deputy yesterday, and further consideration will be given the problem by a committee made up of loan company officers and experts of the finance.

It was stated the tendency had been to set up such standards as to make the average building proposal of a higher unit value than the average man could afford. Efforts will now be made to work out a set of standards that will make home building more accessible to the man with the low income.

In the year the act has been in operation, residential loans have been granted for single houses, duplexes and apartments sufficient to accommodate about 650 families. More than half these loans have been taken out since June 1.

Cattle Quotas Nearly Filled

Increased Imports of Animals Into United States Reported

Associated Press
Washington, Aug. 25.—The Department of Agriculture announced today that increased imports of cattle during the first six months of this year nearly exhausted 1936 quotas for reduced-duty imports.

Its bureau of agricultural economics said the 52,000 quota for calves, weighing 175 pounds or under, had been filled on August 8, and that 89.9 per cent of the 156,000 cattle allowed to enter this country under lowered tariffs had come in by that date.

Under the Canadian-United States trade agreement, the duty on cattle weighing 700 pounds or more was cut from three to two cents a pound, while that on calves was reduced from 2½ to 1½ cents. The reduction was extended to imports from all countries with which the United States has "most favored nation" trade pacts.

The bureau said a total of 279,546 cattle and calves had been imported during the first half of this year, compared with 223,821 in the first six months last year.

Canadian imports increased from 12,329 head in first half of last year to 158,015 in the same period this year. At the same time cattle imports from Mexico decreased from 151,423 to 121,531.

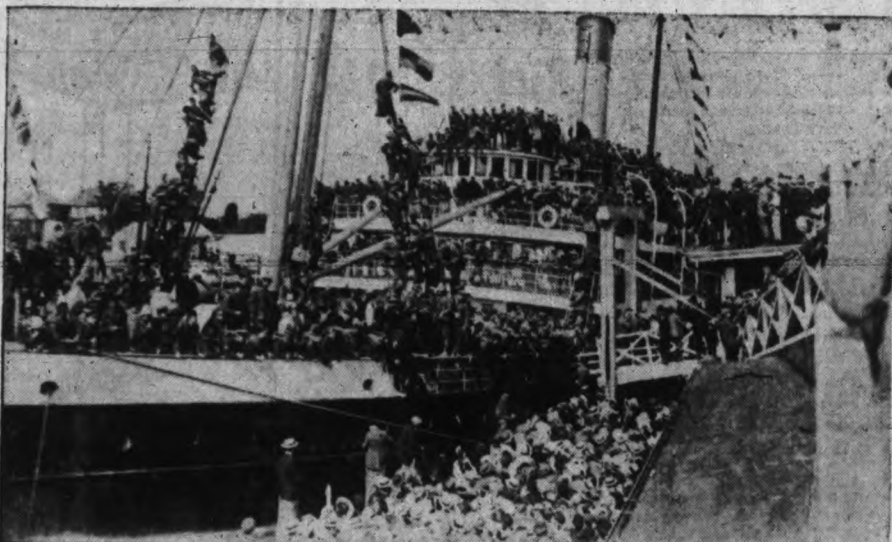

The report showed that of 20,000 dairy cows which could enter under the reduced duty quota, only 3,417 arrived during the first half year.

Many Pledges In Alberta Signed

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Aug. 25.—Premier Aberhart yesterday evening announced that about 80 per cent of the people on the last provincial voting list had registered to co-operate with Alberta's Social Credit government and participate in the basic dividends. He said reports had been received from about 70 per cent of the ridings.

About 60 per cent of Alberta, retailers had signed their special registration form and covenant, the Premier added, and farmers were signing "very well." No reports had been received in regard to registration of manufacturers and processors, being handled by a committee of Social Credit members of the House of Commons, Premier Aberhart stated.

NO PLACE IN NEXT WAR FOR HORSES

Canadian Press
London, Ont., Aug. 25.—The horse will never again go to war, Col. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., director of military training and staff duties, Department of National Defence, told the ninth post-war annual convention of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps Association here yesterday.

"The day of the horse in war has passed and he will never be used again," Col. Pearkes said as he dealt with "modern tendencies in militia organization affecting mechanization."

Col. Pearkes outlined the organization of a completely mechanized army, dealing briefly with all services, and in particular with the organization of an entirely mechanical army service corps.

"No man's land" in the next war would be much larger, he said. The new mechanized army service corps would transport gasoline instead of hay and oats and would be far more mobile than ever before, Col. Pearkes said.

Kipling's Name Finds Defenders

Heated Rebuttal Greeted Oliver Baldwin's Statement That the Poet Lived Only For Revenge After Son's Death in World War

By JOHN TATE
Associated Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 25.—Rudyard Kipling's literary heirs are torn in controversy over the accusation the imperialist author and poet lived only for revenge after his son was killed in the Great War.

Oliver Baldwin, son of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, and a second cousin of Kipling, started the discussion by describing "Mary Postgate," one of the lesser known Kipling works, "the wickedest short story in the world."

Prominent Britons, members of the Kipling Society, and others immediately rose in defence.

The story, which Mr. Baldwin ascribes to "bitterness," never will be published again. A London newspaper sought permission, but Mrs. Kipling, the widow, refused.

A WAR STORY

"Mary Postgate" narrates the story of a woman who saw the pilot of a German bomber plane fall wounded. Her son had been killed flying and she had seen a child killed by the German airman's bombs.

She watched the German slowly die, then calmly went in to tea. "The death of his son," Mr. Baldwin said, "broke Kipling completely. He shut up like a clam. All his creation went. All the lovely part of his nature went."

"He concentrated himself on revenge. That is a horrible and a sad state to get into. He felt: 'Here are the Germans who killed my son.' He wanted to see the end of Germany. There is nobody living who knew Kipling as I knew him in certain moods. He looked on me to revenge him on the Germans. He wanted me to take his son's place, because he wanted someone connected with him fighting. . . ."

"From the day the boy died, Kipling became an entirely changed man. Imperialism stopped dead for him. There was an awful bug at the back of his mind saying, 'After all, didn't you want this war? Didn't you urge it on? Didn't you urge people to wave flags and beat drums? And have you not paid for it?'"

HEATED REPLIES

Baldwin had hardly finished before the British press began crackling with heated rebuttal.

One of the most outspoken was G. C. Beresford, the original M.T. in "Stalky and Co.," one of the author's oldest friends and once his schoolmate.

"Kipling's imperialism did not stop dead with his son's death," Beresford countered. "His history of the Irish Guards and his imperishable ode written for the Victoria centenary celebrations in 1904 are among the many post-war works he wrote which disprove that statement."

GAY AND ALERT

J. C. Brooking, founder of the Kipling Society, dissented on most of Baldwin's views. Kipling, he said, wasn't broken, nor did he cease creating. He was gay, affable, alert and productive long after the death of his son. Brooking maintained.

From personal acquaintance, he said, he knew the author enjoyed playing games with a small girl until shortly before his death. That he loved meeting people and that he left more than sixty-three letters to friends throughout the world thanking them for kindnesses.

"It is absolutely absurd to say Kipling concentrated on revenge," Brooking asserted. "Mr. Baldwin could not have known much of Kipling at that time or he would not have said such a thing."

"In the story of 'Mary Postgate,' Kipling did not express his own feelings but those of women whose children or sons had been killed."

BASICALLY CHEERFUL

Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, M.P., a vice-president of the society, said:

"Kipling was basically of a cheerful disposition, and endlessly merry and vital. He never betrayed that he mourned his losses. Probably his greatest sorrow was the death of his daughter in America. Subsequent to that, however, he wrote his most beautiful and spirited poems."

CLOSING TALK ON MILKY WAY

Dr. Andrew McKellar Gives Last of Summer Lectures

Man has pushed far enough out into space with modern instruments to see that there are millions of other stellar systems like that of which our solar system is an extremely small part, Dr. A. McKellar told thirty students at the last meeting of the summer star-study class conducted by the Victoria branch, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada yesterday evening.

Dr. McKellar is one of the astronomers of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory staff.

The possibility that the galactic system is part of a greater system, perhaps of a globular cluster of such spinning groups, was admitted by Dr. McKellar in a talk on "The Milky Way." Similar systems had been observed as far as 150,000,000 light years away, apparently in regular formation.

"The Milky Way is a manifestation of the shape of our galaxy, made up of stars, star clouds, nebulae and star clusters," Dr. McKellar said.

He explained that the galactic system was in the form of a disc, spinning in space. Its diameter was believed to be about 100,000 light years, and its axis, or thickness, about 4,000 light years.

Looking out through thickness of the system, astronomers could see immense distances, but looking toward the centre of the system, their view was obscured by most of the 400,000,000,000 bodies seen as the Milky Way.

The sun and its system were about two-thirds of the way out to the edge of the stellar disc, Dr. McKellar said.

The diameter of the system had once been estimated as high as 200,000 light years, but errors due to obscuring matter in space had been detected.

A light year is about six million million miles.

Astronomers at the Little Saanich Mountain Observatory had done much in estimating the rate of revolution of the galactic system. It was found that the inner parts of the system rotated faster than the outside.

Since the advent of man on an evolutionary scale, the disc had moved only two degrees about its axis.

Dr. McKellar explained the nature of various types of matter seen in the Milky Way during his lecture and illustrated his remarks with slides.

In some places, he said, dark clouds of gas in the sky obscured the view. These dark nebulae were at only one-millionth of one-millionth atmospheric pressure, but were sufficiently large to blot out rays of light from stars.

If illuminated by adjacent stars, they appeared as blurs of light in space.

Star clusters, such as the Pleiades, were also seen, some in loose, irregular form, some in globular formation. Planetary nebulae, composed of gas around a star, sometimes appeared in striking forms. Spiral and ring nebulae were frequently observed.

Lieutenant-Commander H. R. Tingey, chairman, and talked for a short time on finding the sidereal time by the position of the constellation Cassiopeia.

Appreciation to the School Board and Principal P. H. Elliott for the use of Victoria College and grounds were expressed.

The regular fall lectures will start next month.

COLORED LIGHT AIDS STOMACH

U.S. Academy of Optometrists Is Told of New Treatment

Associated Press
Chicago, Aug. 25.—Use of colored light as a treatment for stomach trouble was described to the American Academy of Optometrists here yesterday.

The "color cure" was also recommended after six years of research by its developer, Dr. H. Riley Spitzer of Eaton, Ohio, for headache, dizziness, and high or low blood pressure. The treatment was indicated in each case, Dr. Spitzer explained, correcting the physiological symptoms by either stimulating or relaxing the nerves of the eye.

Each color had its individual effect, Dr. Spitzer asserted.

Blue or violet light stopped headaches. Red light increased blood pressure. Yellow, green, or blue green light relieved stomach trouble and other digestive ills.

Boxer Thought Dead Returns

P. Uzcudun, Spanish Heavyweight Believed Dead in Revolution, Quite Alive.

Associated Press
Pamplona, Spain, Aug. 25.—Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight fighter, trudged fifty miles through the woods and over mountains to "return from the dead" yesterday.

"Communists wanted to kill me," the Fascist sympathizer said, "because I wore a clean shirt and smoked good cigars."

The woodchopper denounced as "communist propaganda" reports of his death, given out by the People's Front forces at San Sebastian.

He said "funny looking people with guns" had been following him about for several weeks.

"One night I had enough," he continued, "I hit into the woods with five Communist riflemen tracking me. It took me four days without food and sleep to reach Pamplona."

Paulino said he would accompany rebel troops in the advance on San Sebastian in an effort to see his aged mother, who lives in a small town occupied by Spanish loyalists.

"I don't do any fighting," he said.

NEW TRENDS IN EVOLUTION

Dr. D. A. Laird, U.S. Psychologist, Says Man May Walk on All Fours

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Hamilton, N.Y., Aug. 25.—Man in his evolution may be headed for an all-fours posture. Or for a survival of only the all-waisted. Or for a race that forgets its three square meals and eats frequently and lightly.

The reasons were advanced today by Dr. Donald A. Laird, professor of psychology at Colgate University, in the Medical Record.

He reports that after finding office workers slowed down and made increased errors the first hour after lunch, he experimented with Colgate students to learn whether blood drawn from the head by digestion explained the dullness.

Students did mental arithmetic after eating and while lying with their heads lower than their feet. In that position they were better than with heads higher than feet.

Dr. Laird found the explanation in the "splanchnic reservoir," the area where the blood gathers around the viscera.

Digestion, he stated, draws blood from the brain to the splanchnic reservoir temporarily. Feet above head drain it back to the brain.

GAINS AND LOSSES

"In the assumption of an upright position through evolution," Dr. Laird states, "Homo sapiens has gained advantages and suffered losses. If mankind went around on all fours the blood supply to the brain would be better."

"It is interesting to conjecture whether the future evolution of human beings will first into a stooped position and then later into a quadruped walking on all fours, or whether through a survival of the fittest we shall become a race which eats lightly but frequently, or whether survival will come to the narrow-waisted with a small splanchnic reservoir for shuttling blood away from the brain."

South Alberta-Saskatchewan Problem Is National One, Says Dunning in Announcing Long-range Scheme of Changes

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—Confident the people of Canada will help themselves, Finance Minister Charles Dunning has announced the government's decision to take over the major cost of relieving farmers in the drought-stricken areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta, and salvaging the herds threatened with starvation in those districts.

Drought conditions, which in some areas have now been regularly recurring from four to eight years, have brought some 200,000 people to the point where they have been deprived of "even a vestige of a means of livelihood," Mr. Dunning said yesterday.

The government was convinced this was a problem national in its scope and would so accept it.

In co-operation with the two provinces the Dominion will assume cost of relief on a standard basis to the people in the stricken areas, will salvage the suffering herds, and carry further existing facilities for rehabilitating the farmers on more productive land.

Conferences were carried on all last week between provincial ministers and officials of the Department of Finance and Agriculture and the final details of the agreements with the provinces are in the hands of Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Dunning was chairman of the sub-committee of the cabinet appointed to deal with the problem.

Happier Days

IT MUST SEEM LIKE THE GOOD old boom days to Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to see his company's steamships and hotels on the coast filled as they have not been for years, and to receive here today first hand from his local executives reports on a tourist season that has been almost overwhelming in its volume of passenger travel.

The weekly traffic reports show that the C.P.R. has been doing better across the country; but probably nowhere has the gain been so satisfactory and so evident as in this British Columbia coastal area.

All of this must be sweet music to Sir Edward's ears, as it vindicates policies of pre-depression years under which his company's investments and enterprises in this area were enormously increased.

Good times or bad, Victoria is always eager to welcome Sir Edward—as a great Canadian, as well as on account of his position at the head of the transportation organization with which the well-being of our communities is so intimately interwoven. But we are especially happy to greet him in such a season as this, with its results that justify his persistent confidence in us and our possibilities.

From the Smoke of Spain

ONE MAY SEE ALL SORTS OF things in the smoke that drifts up from the burning cities and the battlefields of Spain these days. They are dark and grisly shapes, most of them — things which, with bad luck, may become part of the world's future one of these days.

So closely knit is the fabric of modern society, so intricately involved are the strains of cause and effect, that the world may yet commit the mass hari-kari of a general European war because opposing politicians in Spain took to the gun and the knife to settle their disputes.

Even if the last war, with its legacy of oppression and dictatorship, did not remind us of the futility of fighting to "make the world safe for democracy," a moment's thought about the way war is fought nowadays ought to do so.

One of the first persons in action when war comes in a democracy is the censor. The news columns of the papers are restrained from mentioning this, that, or the other bit of news. Then the editorial columns are curbed; let the editor start denouncing the war and pleading for peace, and he will find himself in extremely hot water — with the government stoking the fires.

Freedom of speech goes simultaneously. One may be convinced that all war is wrong or only that this particular war is a frightful mistake; no matter, if an editor or anyone else airs his views in public, he is more than likely to find himself behind the bars. Freedom of assembly dies with freedom of speech. Freedom of movement also dies. The business man is obliged to conduct his business to suit the requirements of the general staff; the worker who strikes can be drafted into the army; the ordinary citizen is marched off to fight, whether he likes the idea or not.

In other words, the democracy immediately takes on all the attributes of the very dictatorship which it is fighting to destroy. Democracy, for which the war is being fought, ceases to exist for the duration of the war. It may return after the war ends and it may not. If it does, the unbearable discontent of the post-war period is as likely as not to kill it for good.

We talk foolishly when we talk of a new European war to preserve democracy. Democracy is like some other of the world's great dreams — it can be saved in almost any way except by fighting for it, apparently. It will survive, in the long run, if the world's great democracies can show that this system of government gives the ordinary mortal more happiness than any other political system.

Timber Balance

FORWARD-LOOKING FORESTERS of British Columbia have as an objective a balance between growth of our forests and cutting which will make our great lumber industry permanent. Figures have been quoted to show that we, along with the other timber areas of this continent, have been using up our resources faster than they are regrown. It is of interest, therefore, to consider the address of Mr. John B. Woods before the Society of American Foresters in which he declared that changes during recent years have gone far toward bringing timber production into balance with timber consumption.

Mr. Woods contended that to compare growth and drain on the basis of 1929 and previous years was to cling to the bad old days. He said total forest drain for the years 1929-1934 was estimated in the United States at 9,500,000 cubic feet a year, against which is an estimate of annual growth of 8,900,000 cubic feet. "Reduced consumption and increased effectiveness of protective measures have put us practically in a state of balance," he said. "The job now is to complete the extension of management to all our lands—both public and private—and build up our productive capacity."

Here in the still-unexplored Northwest, he declared, lumbermen have at last learned the lesson of more conservative cutting, better protection against fire and other natural agencies of destruction, and provision for replacement on cutover lands.

As to what the future may hold, he pointed to the south, which instead of becoming a barren waste of treeless flats and hills, has "in two decades become a potential yellow pine farm, now growing upon half of its pine lands 183,000,000 cords of wood each year. As this great plant swings into production, as the small trees become big ones, the annual yield of sawtimber and pulpwood may exceed in volume the yearly output of old-growth pine in the old days."

A brisk building boom, such as is now apparently getting under way, might put Mr. Woods' optimistic calculations to a severe test. On the other hand, more economical use of lumber through recent technological advances could do something toward off-setting an excess demand. At any rate it is something of a novelty to hear a note of cheerfulness out of the tall timber.

Tomorrow's Anniversary

TOMORROW MARKS THE twenty-second anniversary of the departure of the first contingent of troops from Victoria for overseas service during the Great War.

On August 26, 1914, the Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.O.F. presented to each man of that gallant band a sprig of white heather for luck, and ever since, in accordance with the chapter's motto "to keep one hand on the traditions of the past and green the memory of our illustrious dead," its members have sold heather on the anniversary.

While tomorrow's Heather Day is intended primarily as a grateful reminder of the sacrifice made in the cause of humanity by those heroes, many of whom rest "in Flanders' field," the material proceeds are used by the chapter for the furtherance of its work along patriotic and philanthropic lines. It, therefore, makes a dual appeal to the ever-generous sympathies of the citizens of Victoria.

Still Plenty of Oil

THE MAGAZINE OF OIL WALL Street recalls that some years ago a gallon of gasoline was selling at about thirty cents a gallon the late Senator LaFollette predicted that it would go to a dollar and pointed with alarm to our dwindling deposits of crude oil. From time to time others also uttered dire warnings approaching depletion. As late as ten years ago, even within the industry, proven reserves of oil underground were estimated at little more than 5,000,000,000 barrels.

Since that time nearly 9,000,000,000 barrels have been drawn from thousands of wells and consumed—yet at the present time the American Petroleum Institute estimates proven underground reserve at 12,000,000,000 barrels! What happened was that the discovery of new fields, improved methods of recovering oil and great technological progress in the refining of gasoline made nonsense out of earlier calculations of underground supply and its relationship to demand.

Despite great geological advances in determining the presence of underground oil, it is highly improbable that the last great field has been discovered and equally improbable that the maximum efficiency in recovery and refining has been attained. For these reasons the American Petroleum Institute makes bold to dismiss from mind any apprehension as to oil supplies over the next twenty-five years. For that matter, we shall probably have some other equally good motor fuel available—synthetic or otherwise—before the oil runs out, whether that be twenty-five years hence, fifty years or longer.

Two more Paris lawyers have met on the field of honor, and both opened for the defence.

Friends are the big problem of political campaigners. They have always known how to handle their foes.

Aberhart's "hot money" may have a souvenir value for collectors some day, but it is possessed of no scarcity value in contemporary Alberta.

It may be taken for granted that the people of Greece are hoping that the nation's new strong man, Mr. Metaxas, does not live up to the middle syllable of his name.

We are awaiting the reply of the professional organizations to the eulogies of "Papa" Dionne by the Knights of Columbus as "the most famous man in the world."

"The Saturday Evening Post is not a partisan of any party"—Saturday Evening Post editorial. Well, after reading it recently we come to the conclusion that the Americans need some humor in their presidential campaign.

It comes as a bit of a shock, but the last report of the United States Census Bureau reveals there are 4,283,753 Americans more than ten years old who can neither read nor write. Here is a large segment of population handicapped at the outset for any competition in a modern world that demands the best education a person can obtain. If the individual cases of these 4,000,000 were analyzed, it might be found that hundreds of thousands are unemployed—unemployed because they never have been equipped to earn an adequate living.

Hopeful hints of commercial recovery are reaching the capital from widely separated parts of the country, showing that this change for the better is neither sectional, spasmodic nor accidental. Canadian Business reports from Ottawa. Revenue car-loadings, the price index, re-employment, bank clearings, and the spirit of the people themselves—all these fairly reliable barometers of business conditions—are pointing to fair weather. There is a slow but steady advance in sales to every important part of the empire, and what is still more interesting, despite all the gloomy predictions made about what would happen to the industrial fabric, the expansion of exports to the United States and Japan have, particularly in the last two months, exceeded the fondest expectations.

LOOSE ENDS

Up at Campbell River everyone is mad—with a divine madness—which takes him out into the cold dawn—with a wild fervor—All of which means I have been Tye fishing.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

STRANGE CULT

IT IS A SAD THING to see a fine upstanding man go suddenly insane. There was a certain melancholy, therefore, in my recent trip up the island, for I was investigating at first hand a phase of civilization quite new to me and quite mad. I refer, of course, to the Tye fishing cult around Comox and Campbell River. I am the only man who has come back from such an experience moderately sane, and even I cannot be trusted for a while within a hundred yards of a fish shop.

Yes, at exactly 3 o'clock in the morning when, though you wouldn't know it, the sky is still pitch black with the stars all aglow, and there is no sign of light in the east and the air is as cold as winter—at exactly 3 o'clock in the morning we were awakened by the tramp of many feet on the gravel paths of Ed. Painter's fishing camp. I looked out the window and there were a hundred fishermen all tramping down to the wharf—grimly, with hard, set faces, like men about to embark on some hopeless adventure, some forlorn hope, some warlike raid from which few would return; like men who were to be hanged at dawn. Brave men, I thought, with three-o'clock-in-the-morning courage, the rarest courage of all.

They were going out to fish for Tye salmon.

STARK MAD

THESE WERE NOT poor fishermen who needed the Tye salmon to make a living. They didn't have to get up at 3 o'clock. They could have stayed in bed all day if they had wanted to. Many of them were rich Americans, who had come in limousines as big as Pullmans. But they were undergoing every hardship and discomfort; they were out there shivering in the dank, salt chill of the straits in the dark, just on the odd chance that a Tye salmon would deign to notice them. Stark mad, all of them.

I turned over and tried to go to sleep again, but some unaccountable urge, peculiar to this place, some strange, irresistible force, urged me to Campbell River, seized me, and before I knew what I was doing, I, too, was trudging down the wharf in the darkness behind a guide who had a wild light in his eye. Stark mad, all of us.

It is an exhilarating sport. You sit in the back-end of a rowboat and the guide rows and rows, and you shiver and shiver, and the great Tyes roll on the surface of the water with a contemptuous sneer, thumbing their fins at you, and presently the dawn flames up over Quadra Island, and maybe, if you are lucky, you get a big tug on your line and spend the next half hour hauling it in, like hauling a bucket out of a deep well.

FISHING

THIS IS CALLED FISHING; some even dignity it by the name of angling. After the first fifteen minutes my only interest was breakfast, and that doesn't start until 7 o'clock, three hours away. There were forty boats out there, whirling around in a circle over the Tye Hole, some hundred men, all stark mad.

Quite a lot of them hooked into a Tye. I didn't, but that was no discredit to me as a fisherman, any more than hooking into one was a credit to them. Everybody with a guide and the same kind of tackle has the same chance, and that is why Tye fishing is not fishing at all, is not a test of skill, requires nothing but the labor and experience of the guide. And that, of course, is why hundreds of people who have never learned to fish at all, who have never felt the pure religious urge of fishing, nor felt the ecstasy of a two-pound trout on a seven-ounce rod, imagine that they are fishermen because they sit in a boat in the cold dawn trailing a spoon through the water and yearning for their breakfast. Bless them, they enjoy it, and the island benefits. But you certainly get hungry around 6 a.m.

HARDWARE

BOB DAVIS, of The New York Sun, who wanders about the world, writing a column every day on what he sees, was up at Campbell River, and I expect to find a dozen columns about Vancouver Island will be syndicated through the United States shortly. Well, Bob Davis, who is a fisherman, calls fishing for the great fat Tye "dragging a lot of hardware in front of an overstuffed sofa." And until he got to Painter's Camp, he said he hadn't really tasted salmon worthy of the name. "We ordered some salmon further south," said Bob, "and they brought us in some thin pieces of fried redwood piano stool."

Bob and I are the only known characters who have escaped from the Tye in our right minds. The others around Campbell River are getting madder all the time. One man told me, as if it were something to be proud of, as if he had performed some great work for humanity, that he had spent $3,000 before he had caught his first gold-button fish, over fifty pounds. Whereas some greenhorn who had never been on the water before, had caught a fifty-five pounder within the first half hour. There is no sense of justice in the Tye.

BUTTONS

THIS DESIRE to catch a button fish is the real religious fire of the Tye cult. Americans come here and get a gold button and wear it the rest of their lives with as much pride as if it were the Victoria Cross or a Congressional Medal. In time, as this goes on, you will find a whole aristocracy, a kind of secret order in the United States, made up of people who have a Campbell River button, and eventually the buttons will become hereditary, handed down from father to son, like a dukedom, with complicated genealogies and a Burke's Peerage.

Yes, I have seen a strong man almost break into tears when told by the official weigher that his fish weighed just two ounces under fifty pounds so that he got only a silver button. The fish had fought just as hard as a fifty-pounder; which is to say it had given him considerably less fight than a three-pound trout, but that meant nothing to him. It didn't win a gold button. Such men should play slot machines. It would cost them far less.

In fact, it has been calculated that on the average a Campbell River salmon will cost a man about $20 a pound, which is more expensive than the best Russian caviar. Trout costs around $15, I have found.

After all these unhappy reflections, out in the cold, grey dawn, they took me up to Duncan Bay later in the morning and I tried for cohoes with an eight-ounce trout rod and a bucktail fly, and I hooked into a seven-pounder, and I will say that he was as good as a three or even a four-pound trout. Thus an all-time record for failure as a salmon fisherman was lost. I had caught my first salmon. And I am going back to Campbell River and Comox, like the rest of them, a helpless victim of this vague disease. Who knows? I might get a gold button one of these days!

SMILES ALL AROUND

To the Editor:—All pleasure was mine when I read that my letter had at least caused "View Royal" one smile.

I also would like to inform "View Royal" that her contributions have not only given me many smiles, but several real hearty laughs.

I wonder which of us will be smiling, or, perhaps, laughing heartily, when we have the pleasure of reading the strong "Socialist" plans that must be framed for Mr. Connell to make a platform for his new party.

DEMAND FOR MORE U.S. NEWS

To the Editor:—On the links, a visitor who has been spending two months in Victoria, made a suggestion which seemed worth passing on to you. It was that, during the three summer months, one page of real news from the States be printed daily, with special reference to the Pacific Coast. He stated that there was an absolute dearth of American news in our papers—that is, with the exception of accounts of sporting events not of great interest to such tourists as are attracted by what Victoria has to offer.

H. H. WILCOX, Uplands.

ARE WE "TOUCHY"?

To the Editor:—After reading the Canadian Press dispatches in today's Times regarding a speech by Lord Elphinstone at Toronto, I was surprised to find an editorial on the subject on turning over the page.

Nowhere in the dispatches printed in the Times have I noticed that His Lordship mentioned another war; he merely said: "In the event of another war," but in your haste, apparently, to score a political point, you seem to have overlooked the fact that he is reported to have said in his speech, and it would appear that the Minister of Defence also "went off at half cock."

If, as Hon. Mr. McKenzie claims, the Viscount is a "great personal friend" of his, surely as such, as a Minister of the Crown, and a gentleman, he should not rush into print in such haste to insult the "stranger within our gates." I use the word "insult" because Lord Elphinstone has made his explanation which has evidently been ignored. However, I do not think his lordship will be found to be as thin-skinned and "touchy" as the fiery northerner.

So long as "some visitor from the Old World" comes to Canada (and Victoria) and praises our people, our scenery, and everything else, he is lauded to the skies, and invited to go fishing; but let him raise his voice in the faintest criticism and no vituperation is strong enough for him. It will now be in order for you to "call down" Admiral Sir Matthew Best for his remarks at the civic luncheon at the Empress Hotel Saturday, but not, of course, the Lord Mayor of London.

"Oh, what more power the gift give us." W. ROBERTSON, Lindsay Avenue, R.M.D. 2.

BROKE THE RULES

To the Editor:—May I draw "Missourian's" attention to the fact that he has broken the rules governing publication of correspondence by indulging in personalities.

This should not be expected, above all, from one who uses a pen-name to conceal his identity. STUDENT, Cook Street.

NANAIMO'S TROUBLES

From The Nanaimo Free Press

Over here on the island, we are providing one-third of the revenues of the province, and getting considerably less in return. It is not much use, we have found in the past, going to official Victoria, since that which official Victoria does, for the most part, is dictated by Vancouver.

Our natural resources are aiding the mainland. Money is sent for much of our produce which comes from the mainland. The men who work in our woods are hired on the mainland. It's one of our biggest markets, but it extracts a terrific bonus for favors received.

And that as Mr. Pattullo said in effect not so long ago, is just what we should take pleasure in accepting.

Certainly, we'll tell our troubles to Vancouver. We have many of them, all well documented. But we don't think Vancouver will do very much about it. Under the present set-up, we doubt very much if there is very much they can do.

A QUAKER'S RETORT

Things are not always what they seem. When the British House of Commons refused to allow Charles Bradlaugh to take the oath of office, on the ground that he was an atheist, old John Bright, the famous Quaker statesman and the greatest parliamentary orator of his day, said:

"It is not Bradlaugh's atheism which offends his enemies: it is the man's unconscious Christianity."

NOISED ABOUT

From a New York Correspondent

Now that summer is here, incidentally, and windows are ajar, the city's noises seem to have increased a million fold. The grating gears, the screeching brakes, horn honks and boot whistles, fog horns and a cacophony of radio programmes. Trolleys hurtling along steel tracks and odd shouts. The chug of the railroad freight train and the barking in chorus of every dog in the neighborhood. Police and fire sirens careening wildly up and down the streets. And above it all, the unintelligible murmur of the crowd.

Who was it who wisely said that a city man vacationing in the country would like to exchange croaking frogs for automobile honkers, mooring crows for fire department sirens, bleating sheep for yelling newsboys, hoot owls for night club sounds, rain patter for lunch club jokes? A city man's ears are attuned to the ceaseless din of the big town.

Declarer Handles Trump Carefully and Makes One Over Contract, by Means of a Coup Play

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

Many bridge players attain at least local fame as champions, through their skill in winning matches at rubber bridge. Such are John H. Langebartel and Charles Pool, of Quinby, Ill., who have been taking on all comers at rubber bridge and have lost only four matches since February, 1935.

Quite a record, I should say for success at rubber bridge depends not

Today's hand, however, is an interesting example of play by Mr. Langebartel in one of their recent matches. The contract went high, through the ace-showing bidding, but the result was quite satisfactory to declarer.

Perhaps East was overhasty with his double, as North and South, with their various cue bids, seemed well on the road to six.

The opening lead of the two of diamonds was won in dummy. Then the spade ace was cashed and dummy was re-entered with a diamond.

mond, the lead apparently marking West with four.

The spade king was laid down, and a diamond discarded. Another spade was led, and trumped in the closed hand.

South now led a trump and won with the ace. A trump was returned.

When East hopped up with the king South won all the other tricks, capturing the ten and seven of trumps by means of a coup.

The result was 600 for tricks below the line and 400 above. The hand could have been held to five if East had ducked the heart return, and might have been beaten had South guessed wrong on the trumps.

UNION BACKS PLEA FOR AID

Esquimalt Petition Will Go Before Federal House, Reeve Reports

A petition from the Esquimalt Council pointing out the extent of government-owned tax-free lands in the municipality and asking for a grant in compensation was unanimously endorsed by the Union of Canadian Municipalities at its recent convention in Vancouver and will be submitted to the federal house at its next session.

Reeve Alexander Lockie, gave this information to the council at the session last night when he reported on the convention in the role of the municipality's delegate.

"Every effort will have to be made by next year's council to see that this resolution is put forward with all the force possible," said the reeve.

He had explained to the convention, he said, that the position of Esquimalt differed radically from that of other municipalities in the matter of government tax-free property in that Esquimalt and Halifax were the only two points where large areas of land instead of buildings were concerned, and that, while Halifax had the compensation of large government purchases of supplies, Esquimalt had none.

He stressed the importance of keeping this distinction plain at the time that the resolution came before Parliament.

The reeve pointed out that under its new set-up the Union of Canadian Municipalities was now the strongest municipal body in the history of the Dominion.

He extended thanks to Mayor David Leeming and other Vancouver Island delegates for their co-operation.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

SILENT ANIMALS OF THE JUNGLE

Recently, the game warden of Kenya, Africa, reported that he heard a young giraffe, separated from its mother, bawl and low like a hungry calf. And so the general belief that this tall, lock-necked animal cannot utter a sound is shattered.

But compared with other animals, the giraffe is mute, and among the most timid, nervous, and delicate creatures in existence. Only its spotted skin save it from the sight of prey and enemies, and its fleet legs enable it to escape when attacked.

The giraffe's long neck contains no more vertebrae than that of man or of any other animal except the sloth and the "sea-cow." It reaches three times the height of man and can run at a speed of thirty miles an hour.

This strange animal is confined to Africa, south of the Sahara Desert. Countries such as Tanganyika, Nyassa, Northern Rhodesia, Abyssinia picture it on their stamps. One of the popular triangular postage due stamps of Nyassa, shown here, is an example.

Veterans Entertain Big Party at Chamber of Commerce

Veterans of past naval engagements joined representatives of the present naval forces of Canada and the Imperial Navy in one of the most successful smoking concerts in the history of the Navy Veterans' Branch No. 42, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium yesterday evening.

Before a gathering of approximately 400, including men and petty officers of the Esquimalt base as well as those of H.M.S. Apollo, a splendid programme of entertainment was presented. Hosts and guests alike joined in community singing, carrying on their function until nearly midnight.

Better Things Are Looked For

Gyro Club Learns of Revival of Union of Canadian Municipalities

A revival in the Union of Canadian Municipalities was brought about on the last day of the recent convention in Vancouver, Alderman Archie Willis, told members of the Gyro Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday. He was called on when the speaker for the luncheon did not arrive.

"We have always felt that the municipalities are closest to the people who pay the bulk of the taxes in Canada—that they are the base of the pyramid," he said. "The provincial governments come next and the Dominion Government at the apex. But so often the pyramid has been reversed and has become top heavy."

If the 4,600 municipalities throughout the Dominion were organized, they would constitute a body to whom Parliament would lend a more favorable ear. It was with this in view that the Union of Canadian Municipalities convened in Vancouver, Alderman Willis said.

An aggressive man, Alderman Willis of Montreal, was elected president and the new set-up called for three delegates from each province.

He described the banquet to the Lord Mayor which the delegates attended. The fire in Vancouver seemed to have destroyed the last hope of a major hockey league on the Pacific Coast, Alderman Willis commented. For years there had been talk of a hockey league including San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and possibly Victoria. Now that was gone with the arena's blaze.

Waldo Skilling, president of the Gyro Club, introduced the speaker, and thanked him for "pinch-hitting."

Plan Control Of Smaller Fruits

Small fruit growing on the lower mainland will be the next branch of British Columbia agriculture to come under the provincial Marketing Act, it was learned from the Department of Agriculture today.

When consulted by growers, Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, asked them to submit their proposals for marketing control in the form of a definite scheme which could be voted upon by those concerned.

The scheme will affect only British Columbia sales.

FISH PROGRESS IS INSPECTED

Assistant Fisheries Commissioner Returns From Visit to Interior Rivers

George J. Alexander, assistant commissioner of fisheries for the province, has returned from a visit up the Fraser and Thompson Rivers. The purpose of the trip was to observe the progress of the sockeye and to ascertain whether or not any of the recent heavy run proceeded to the Thompson River.

The assistant commissioner visited Hell's Gate and various points along the Fraser as far up as Bridge River Rapids, proceeding to Adams River in the Shuswap Lake area. Mr. Alexander reports that no fish were observed in either of the Thompson Rivers, nor were any fish in Little River or Adams River in the Shuswap Lake area.

Considerable numbers of sockeye were seen at Hell's Gate and the fish were experiencing no difficulty in ascending the swift water as the height of the water was still favorable to the passage of fish. At Bridge River Rapids sockeye were apparent in considerable quantities and an examination of the fish showed that they were still in fair condition, which would indicate that they still had considerable distance to go before reaching the spawning grounds.

At the various Indian fishing stations, the fish racks were well filled with drying sockeye and in some cases the Indians had already obtained their requirements and were leaving. From conversations with the Indians Mr. Alexander states that the apparently escapement this year is considerably greater than in recent past years.

A further inspection of the various spawning grounds will be made later in the season when the sockeye have reached their destination.

Sees Alliance As Europe Hope

Unity of France, Britain and Russia Would Settle Unrest, Says Speaker

An alliance between France, Great Britain and Russia would accomplish a great deal towards settlement of European difficulties, said Major A. B. Hooper, former officer of the Imperial Army, in an address yesterday evening at the English Bakery Hall, Port Street, under the auspices of the C.C.F.

Major Hooper spoke on "Russia and the General Situation in Europe."

His description of Russia was based on the findings he made during a tour of the Soviet Union last spring, when he had acquainted himself with the daily life of the people, and a few facts concerning the country's fighting forces, which he learned through friends in the British Embassy.

Moscow, Major Hooper found, was one of the cleanest cities in Europe. He visited factories, theatres, restaurants and hotels and was quite impressed with the appearance of the people under the new regime.

People of the Soviet appeared happy, he thought, and his chief impression had been the demand of the state that everyone should contribute to the welfare of the people as a whole.

One-third of industrial profits went to the state and the remaining two-thirds were used by the workers.

J. R. Scooby was the chairman.

The block was secured last week through Edwin Tomlin, managing director of the B.C. Cement Company, and will be logged under the supervision of Matthew Hemmingsen.

ETHIER-ROBINSON

At 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, August 19, Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, was the setting for a quiet wedding when Sybil Ernestine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Robinson of Watrous, Sask., became the bride of Mr. Edward Georges Ethier, H.M.C.S. Skeena, son of Mr. E. L. Ethier of Montreal, formerly of Watrous, Sask. Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Herbert H. Robinson, the bride was wearing a white tailored suit and hat with white accessories, and a pink and blue corsage bouquet. Both the groom and his best man, Mr. W. Dow of Vancouver, wore naval uniforms. After the wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Ethier left for a honeymoon on Vancouver Island, and will later take up residence in Victoria.

CHANG-CHOW

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the W.M.S. Oriental Home, Corner Street, on Saturday afternoon, August 22, when Miss Lucy Chow was united in marriage with Mr. Ning Chang, merchant of Chemainus. Rev. Chow Ling, pastor of the Chinese United Church, conducted the ceremony before the fireplace, which was banked with ivy, fern, gladioli and sweet peas.

The bride, given in marriage by Miss Margaret Laurie, superintendent of the home, entered the reception room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Helen Mah. All of the staff and residents of the home, together with relatives and friends, were in attendance.

The bride was attired in a gown of ivory satin and lace, and wore a veil prettily fashioned and caught in place with a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, sweet peas and stalks.

During the signing of the register, Miss Jessie Laurie sang "Still as the Night." At the close of the ceremony, dainty refreshments were served, after which a number of speakers expressed the good wishes of the guests in behalf of the happy couple.

The bride was one of the most popular members of the Oriental Home family, a fact attested by the large number of beautiful gifts she received.

Mr. and Mrs. Chang left later in the afternoon for Chemainus, where receptions by both Chinese and Canadian friends were to be held.

Garden Party For Lourdes Church

A garden party in aid of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, The Willows, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chas. E. Wilson, Uplands. There will be many attractions, including afternoon tea in the garden, which is looking very pretty with its masses of late summer bloom.

Mrs. W. Schramm of Salt Lake City, Utah, a frequent visitor to Vancouver Island, is proudly displaying the twenty-two-pound salmon she caught recently at Cowichan Bay. With Miss Lois Steer of Portland, she is spending the summer at the up-island resort, and the above specimen is but one of the many tangible proofs of her prowess as an angler.

Greeting Guests At Government House Garden Party

As the long line of guests filed past the receiving point at the garden party given by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber at Government House yesterday afternoon, on the extreme left is Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir just about to greet Sir Percy Lake, who is wearing his medals and decorations. Between them may be seen the Governor-General and his aide-de-camp, Lieut. G. Rivers-Smith, R.N. Lady (Richard) Lake is following Sir Percy, just after being greeted by His Honor and Mrs. Hamber, the top of whose hat may just be seen. Following Lady Lake is Sir Richard Lake and their daughter and son, Miss Kitty Lake and Mr. Dickon Lake. On the extreme right are Mrs. R. H. Pooley, Mr. Pooley and Miss Agnew (in the white coat).

Dance At Oak Bay Golf Club

Now that Navy Week is over, with H.M.S. Apollo departing this morning for Vancouver with the vice-regal party aboard, the next item on the social calendar is the annual flannel dance of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club which is to be held at the Oak Bay clubhouse on Friday evening.

Dances at the Oak Bay club are such a rarity that, when they are announced there is an instant demand for tickets. As the number of invitations is strictly limited in order to ensure the comfort of dancers, those intending to go are urged to make immediate application to avoid disappointment.

Len Acres and his orchestra will furnish the music. The committee in charge of the arrangements includes Mrs. A. K. Mitchell (ladies' captain), Mrs. J. W. Lennox, Mrs. V. S. Godfrey, Mrs. L. O. Howard, Mrs. Alex Gillespie and Miss Jean Campbell.

Naval Ball Brilliant Climax To Festivities

Nearly 500 Guests at Function Honoring Commander-in-Chief and Officers of H.M.S. Apollo Last Night at Empress Hotel; City Official Hosts.

Climaxing a round of festivities centring about their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir and Admiral the Hon. Sir Matthew Best and the captains and officers of H.M.S. Apollo, the naval ball at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening was one of the most brilliant functions of a social calendar which has filled this summer season with red-letter days.

COLORFUL SCENE
Hung with British and foreign ensembles, the crystal ballroom was an effective setting for the gay scene, the blue and gold of the navy and the scarlet and gold of the army vying with the vivid hues of the ladies' gowns in a kaleidoscope of color.

The hotel orchestra, augmented to eleven pieces under the leadership of Mrs. F. Fickler, provided an excellent programme of music. The ballroom foyer, arranged with masses of flowers and soft lighting, made a delightful rendezvous between dances. Supper was served in the main dining-room, the tables being centred with early autumn flowers.

The City of Victoria was the host of the evening and the official committee responsible for the success of the ball included His Worship the Mayor, Alderman P. R. Brown (chairman), Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter, Messrs. J. Witcomb, G. Harrison, C. Vorton and J. Baxter. The invited guests included:

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

IT'S EASY TO CONVINCE CHILDREN
YOU LOVE THEM—AND A SURE
CURE FOR "MEANNESS"

Problems seem enormous when there is but one person to solve them, and so we feel a very sincere pity for this young mother with her very real perplexities.

"I am rearing alone my two boys, four and two and a half years. The elder has a mean streak in him. When I bring an object home for them, unless watched closely he will hide or even destroy it. Then he lies about it."

A "BORN BULLY"

The little boy has a more pleasing disposition, and the elder is jealous, though I do not know of whom, as I try to show the same amount of affection to both. Perhaps he inherits this from his father, who teased and bullied weaker persons. Children do not inherit character traits. These grow out of their own experience and the treatment they receive. Children may imitate the behavior of adults, but it is his environment that is responsible for your boy's present actions.

CHANGE YOUR ATTITUDE

He is jealous of the younger boy because you, and others probably, pay more attention to him, largely because of his more pleasing conduct. No doubt you say often, "Why don't you try to be sweet like brother so people will love you more?" Strangely enough this inspires meanness, not sweeter conduct.

The boys you bring are intended for the younger brother, too, and he gets a perverse satisfaction in depriving him of them. In order to change his attitudes you must change yours. Give him more privileges, such as a later bed hour, because he is older and because you need him to help you.

SHOW YOUR LOVE

Give him personal things instead of common toys used for both boys. When the younger is in bed read and talk to him. Make him feel your need and love for him. Then he'll live up to your estimate of him as a helpful, loving son upon whom you depend, as now he lives up to your estimate of him as a "mean" boy. There is no great art needed to convince children of your love, but it works like magic in making over a child whose behavior springs from his inner unhappiness.

The leaflet, "Causes of Lying," may be had for a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of this newspaper with a request for the leaflet by name.

Tomorrow: You can't shame a child into a change of heart.

W.A. Expects Crowd For Meeting

Columbia Diocesan

The meetings are to be held in the Memorial Hall of Christ Church Cathedral, and are open to all W.A. members, though only delegates may vote, but that does not preclude anyone interested in the missionary work of the Canadian church from attending.

Officers of parochial branches are asked to urge upon their members the value of the opportunity to hearing and learning from the Dominion officers and gaining a closer knowledge of the work.

The full programme will be published later, and the Dominion executive have approved of the suggestions made by Columbia W.A. for the entertainment of the delegates, many of whom will see the Pacific Coast for the first time. Anyone desiring to offer hospitality to any of the above, or to act as hostess, is requested to inform Mrs. F. C. Nivin, 1230 St. Patrick's Street, telephone E 2455.

SPIDERS SNARE GARTER SNAKE

Bristol, Conn., Aug. 25.—The death struggle between a six-inch garter snake and a black house spider, in progress four days in a cellar, ended a climax today with the appearance of two additional spiders.

The allies, who turned up overnight at the scene in the home of Arthur L. Krasenics, immediately set to work reinforcing an already stout web which the original contender had woven about the head and forepart of the snake.

The three spiders have raised the snake another inch off the floor so the reptile is now suspended by half its length, its struggles unavailing.

Married For Fifty Years And More

Ten Couples Mark
Anniversary
In Quebec Village

L'Assomption, Que., Aug. 25.—Wedding bells rang out over L'Assomption parish Sunday as ten couples celebrated anniversaries totaling 552 years of married life.

In traditional French-Canadian fashion the white-haired couples walked side by side to church while the bells in the steeple sounded their anniversary greeting. Hundreds of "year relations" filed the pews to overjoying, and more distant cousins waited at home for the next mass.

Leading them all were Zoltique and Darie Lafortune, married sixty-four years. Pete Lafortune is eighty-nine and his wife seventy-nine, but they were the sprightliest of the group. They counted fifteen children and sixty-eight grandchildren among their descendants.

Two couples were celebrating their diamond jubilees. Wilfrid and Esther Laurendeau, eighty and seventy-seven respectively, and Antoine and Marie-Dina Brouillette, eighty-three and seventy-three, were married sixty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Baptiste Beaudryant were next in line, with fifty-seven years of married life behind them. They have thirteen children and fifty-four grandchildren. Married fifty-six years were Georges Boisjoly and his wife.

Isaie Forest and his wife, the former Zepherna Allard, have been married forty-two years and have twelve children and thirty grandchildren. Also married fifty-two years were Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Dupuis, whose descendants include thirteen children and fifty-six grandchildren. Fifty-one years married were Maxine Christian and his wife, with no children.

Two pairs of youngsters brought up the rear. They were Sifroid and Mathilde Raynault and Zoltique and Elizabeth Dumais, married half a century ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dumais have fourteen children and forty grandchildren, while the Raynaults count eighteen children and twenty-one grandchildren.

One of the Raynault sons is Adhemar Raynault, a Montreal alderman and member-elect to the Quebec Legislature for L'Assomption County. He

Premier's Son Is Married

London, Aug. 25.—Arthur Windham Baldwin, son of Prime Minister Baldwin, was married today to Joan Elsie Thomas, daughter of the late C. A. Thomas of New York, and Mrs. Thomas.

The ceremony was performed at Caxton Hall register office. The bride's age was given as thirty-five; that of Baldwin thirty-two. Mothers of the bride and bridegroom were present, but the Prime Minister was absent.

Mrs. Baldwin, whose engagement was announced July 23, lived with her mother in Loughborough, Scotland. Her father was born in America, was married and graduated from Harvard in 1875. He was an importer and exporter.

Mrs. Baldwin was born in Scotland and educated in England. Her husband is a steel company director.

Dark Horse In Stork Derby

"Mrs. X," Mother of Ten, Enters
Running For Purse

By MOLLIE McGEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 25.—First dark horse in the $500,000 Miller will "stork derby" stepped up from nowhere today to run neck-and-neck with the leaders.

The Canadian Press discovered pretty red-headed "Mrs. X" has given birth to ten children since Charles Vance Millar died October 31, 1936, and left the money to the Toronto mother storking birth to the most children in the following ten years.

This twenty-four-year-old mother was found in Toronto taking care of the twin boys born to her a few weeks ago. Her identity is being kept secret at her request. She has never been mentioned among the seven women who claim to have had from eight to twelve children and who have been considered the leaders.

"Please don't give any names or any information that will bring reporters to see us here," the mother begged.

The entry of "Mrs. X" changes the baby race box score. Here it is, based on the claims of the contestants, with the living children of each entrant bracketed:

	Born	Eligible	Pected
Kenny	14 (9)	12 (7)	1
"Mrs. X"	10 (8)	10 (7)	0
Nagle	12 (11)	10 (9)	0
Timelock	17 (16)	10 (9)	0
Bagnato	23 (14)	9 (4)	1
Gradano	10 (9)	9 (8)	0
Harrison	14 (14)	8 (8)	0
Darrigo	16 (12)	8 (5)	0

ALL REGISTERED

The ten children "Mrs. X" has had are all registered. Rivals claim two at least of Mrs. Kenny's twelve are not registered, which would make the contest wide open. Registration is expected to be a condition of qualification in the race.

If it is necessary that the story of "Mrs. X" be told fully it will be one of the strangest ever made public. She was married when she was attending high school for the second year and was within a few months of her fifteenth birthday. The young mother said today she has "gone to business" as a clerical worker until within a few weeks of the birth of each child.

She has never asked for relief although her husband deserted her some years ago. She was married clandestinely by her foster father who adopted "Mrs. X" and another child when they were infants. This man died last winter.

Since her husband left her "Mrs. X" has given birth to a boy, now three years old, twin daughters and twin sons.

Countess Dies At Ripe Age

Canadian Press Cable
London, Aug. 25.—The Dowager Countess of Bradford, one of Queen Mary's oldest friends, died today. She was seventy-seven years of age and lived at Castle Bromwich, Birmingham.

By birth and also by marriage related to many noble houses, the Dowager Countess was Lady of the Bedchamber when Queen Mary was Princess of Wales, and from 1905 onward was extra Lady-in-Waiting. Queen Mary often visited her at Castle Bromwich.

Two sons survive, the present Lord Bradford and Lieut. Col. Hon. H. G. Bridgeman of Alnwick. Also surviving are four daughters: Lady Beatrice Pretzman, the Dowager Duchess of Buccleuch, Countess Seton and Lady Florence Norman.

SENATOR TO DEBATE STRIKE

Homer T. Bone to Address
One of Several P.-I. Meetings
in Seattle

Associated Press
Seattle, Aug. 25.—Striking members of the American Newspaper Guild, the Pacific Northwest Newspaper Association and the Law and Order League today planned meetings to be held this week on the Seattle Post-Intelligencer's eleven-day-old strike.

The guild called a mass meeting for this evening to hear ten speakers, including United States Senator Homer T. Bone, Governor Clarence D. Martin pleaded a previous engagement after the guild had announced he would speak at the rally at which they said reasons and circumstances leading up to the strike would be explained.

The newspaper association called on its membership and that of the Washington State Newspaper Association and Allied Dailies to meet tomorrow to consider the strike and to hear proposals which might be laid before the publishers were not disclosed.

At the same time the Seattle Law and Order League through newspaper advertising invited "public spirited citizens" to attend a session to be held this week. It announced primary objectives were "law and order."

Both Governor Martin and Mayor John F. Dore have refused to intervene in the strike.

The newspaper, Hearst-owned, has not published since August 14, when a picket line was thrown around the plant the night before and members of mechanical unions refused to enter the building through the lines.

REPORT TO A. P. OF L.

At the request of President William Green, American Federation of Labor Representative Rowland Watson held conferences yesterday investigating the strike after international printing trades union heads reported the strike affected their contract with the paper.

The Seattle chapter of the guild hailed Green's statement that he "would have no power to take action," even after he received Watson's report, as proof the A. P. of L. would not take away "the united support given by the labor movement in the northwest."

The guild has the backing of the Seattle Central Labor Council, which placed the Post-Intelligencer on the "unfair" list.

RADIO ADDRESS

Jonathan Eddy, international executive secretary of the A.N.G., assisted William Randolph Hearst last night in a radio address, and said, in part:

"... The Hearst management in the present controversy is merely following out the identical policy it has pursued in half a dozen other American communities. This policy is merely one of refusal, wherever and whenever it can get away with it, of the right of employees to organize for whatever legitimate purpose."

Y.P.S. RALLY

The young people's societies of First, Emmanuel and Douglas Street Baptist Churches will hold a united rally tonight at First Baptist Church, commencing at 8 o'clock. Dr. Rowley Green of Regina, one of Canada's outstanding preachers, will be the speaker. All young people are invited.

ALBIE DAVIES — Fight promoter. The former Victoria scrapper drifted into the office yesterday to tell us about a fishing trip he had been on and we got the information out of him that he was now in the promoting game. Albie is putting on shows for the benefit of the residents of Salt Spring Island. And he is having great success in his new field. Asked how he liked being on the outside of the ring looking in, Albie said: "Fine as long as they keep coming to see the cards."

Davies says the people of Ganges and Fulford Harbor are really fight-minded. "They go for boxing in a big way over there and every card I have staged has drawn well," Albie said. The local boy has been on the island for the last three months. Brother Jumbo, the other half of the brother combination, is working up-land. Albie also told us that he and Jumbo would not defend their honors next month in the annual Victoria to Port Angeles canoe derby. "Circumstances make it impossible for us to train, so we have decided not to enter," Albie said. "Last year Jumbo and I worked out every night for nearly two months previous to the race. One needs that much training to make the twenty-three-mile grind."

Silent Glows are one game down in the Vancouver Island senior A football final. Frank Shandley's boys paid a visit to Duncan on Sunday and departed after having their ears pinned back by the Hillierites. Being the under-dogs is no new experience to the Glows. If they run true to form the Victoria champs will win the series. In the lower island final against Brunson's Boys they had to come from behind to win. The same was true in their city championship play-off with Painter's Bruins. Tonight at the Athletic Park those same hustling Bruins will open their island senior B final against Lady-smith. The up-landers will have to be good to keep up with the Bruins. Those kids can really play ball.

Writing in the August issue of the Pacific Coast Golfer, Alex Rose has some interesting comment to pass along on the recent open tournaments in Pacific Northwest cities. It follows in part: "Generally speaking, most of the Big Shots conducted themselves as was expected—like good sports on the golf course. . . . But one or two of them displayed fits of temper that were not becoming to men in their high position in golfdom. . . . People pay money to see the game played. . . . And it might be well for the P.G.A. officials to put Mr. Hot-tempered-Hot-Shot over the coals and let him know that he has better curb his temper or quit competing in opens which are planned by the P.G.A. Tournament Bureau."

"We know four terrible-tempered stars, who toured the Evergreen Trail. . . . And they didn't leave any admirers behind them when they departed. . . . Your golf fans like to see stars play the very best they know how. . . . But your golf fan is not going to pay money to listen to Mr. Star ranting and raving over missing a golf shot. Would that the world were full of Macdonald Smiths. . . . He goes along playing his best at all times. . . . Sometimes the shot doesn't come off exactly as he hoped it would. . . . But he forgets it. . . . And concentrates only on the next shot. . . . What a model to follow is this same Macdonald Smith. . . . But what about next year and the years to come? . . . The Pacific Northwest golf fans thoroughly enjoyed this initial venture. . . . And they now crave for more. . . . But they would like to see Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta and a few others, who were absent this year, get on the 1937 caravan. . . . Such major events undoubtedly stimulate golf wherever they are staged. . . . And they also afford Mr. and Mrs. Golf Fan an opportunity to see in action the chaps they read so much about. . . . Let's have more visits to the Pacific Northwest of these great golfers. . . . The first helping was very tasty. . . . And the helping of something that 'just hits the spot!'"

Most Prosperous Season In Years Being Forecast

Colorful Sunderland Club Will Defend First Division Championship

Arsenal Present Holders of Cup

London, Aug. 25.—Footballers throughout England and Wales are putting the finishing touches to their training for the opening of league competition. The English League season starts on Saturday, with concluding games May 1, 1937.

Economic conditions in the United Kingdom are brighter than for many years and football officials believe the season will be one of the most prosperous in the history of the game. Several of the larger clubs in the country returned good balance sheets for last winter's operations, the profits being used for purchase of new players and to improving ground accommodation.

Sir Charles Clegg, president of the football association, starts his fifty-first year as a member of the governing body, and Charles E. Sutcliffe of Rawtonlaid succeeds the late John McKenna, Liverpool, as head of the football league. McKenna died March 22.

Sunderland, a highly attractive team in the last few years, won its sixth football championship, the first since 1913, and this year has its eyes turned to Wembley and the English Cup. The Roker Park team has never succeeded in winning the trophy. Arsenal, English Cup winner for the second time, last year completed a remarkable record of four firsts and a second in the league and two firsts and a second in the cup in seven years.

Two historic teams, Aston Villa and Blackburn Rovers, will be missing from first division play for the first time since the football league was formed in 1888. The clubs, winners of league and cup competitions on many occasions, displayed poor form all winter and finished at the bottom of the senior league. They will play in the second division this season.

SHOULD DO WELL
The Villans' relegation came about despite the expenditure of a record sum—$177,500—on seven star players. The new men failed to effect a match-winning combination but the famous old club is likely to do great things in the second division and its return to a place among soccer's "upper ten" when the year ends is not unlikely.

Manchester United return to the first division after several years in second-grade football and will be accompanied by Charlton Athletic, colorful London squad that has leaped from the third division to the first in successive seasons.

Up from the third division, the doings of Coventry City and Chesterfield in the second league will be watched with interest. Their places will be taken by Hull City and Port Vale. Both these clubs will play in the northern section of the third division. West Ham, moving over into the southern section.

Derby County's drastic proposal calling for the promotion and relegation of four clubs from each of the divisions each year was thrown out at the annual meeting of the football league. A total of thirty-three clubs favored the scheme and fifteen opposed it, but the motion was lost as a three-quarter majority was necessary. All the clubs in opposition were members of the first division.

Goal-scoring honors for the season went to J. Payne, making his first appearance as a centre-forward for Luton Town. He created a record for league football by netting ten of his team's twelve goals against Bristol Rovers on April 13 in a third division game. The Rovers drew a blank. R. Bell, Tranmere Rovers forward, had established a new high mark, of nine on December 26, 1935, in a third division match against Oldham Athletic. Tranmere won 13 to 4.

Vancouver Arena May Be Rebuilt

Vancouver, Aug. 25.—The Vancouver ice arena, destroyed by fire last Thursday, may be rebuilt, it was stated yesterday by Guy Patrick, arena manager.

With work on reconstruction of the adjoining auditorium building, partially destroyed in the blaze, already underway, Patrick said plans were being considered for the building of a new modern arena.

The foundations of the old building could be utilized, Patrick said, if it was definitely decided to rebuild.

APOLLO TEAM WINS SOCCER

Defeats Royal Canadian Navy Eleven 5 to 1 to Take Naval Veterans' Cup

H.M.S. Apollo soccer eleven yesterday afternoon took possession of the Naval Veterans' trophy, symbolic of soccer supremacy between visiting and local sailors during Navy Week, when they scored a 5 to 1 victory over the Royal Canadian Navy in a display match at the Athletic Park.

The Apollo boys scored three goals in the first half, and added a pair in the final period.

Bad luck started to dog the steps of the Canadians right from the start, when Alex Whyte, staunch full-back, was compelled to leave the field, owing to a "crooked" knee. Despite the fact they were left short-handed, the local eleven fought gamely all the way.

Playing brilliant ball, Marine Maindment, visiting centre forward, garnered four out of his team's total, while Smith, inside right, netted the fifth. Tommy Watt, aggressive forward of the R.C.N., saved his team from a shutout in the first half, when he sagged the net.

OPENING GOAL

Maindment opened the scoring just as the game had progressed twenty minutes, when he tricked his way through the R.C.N. defence and planted the ball in the corner of the net. From the kick-off the Canadian boys put on the pressure, and took the ball far into their opponents' territory, where Bruce Robinson shot for the net. It was blocked, but Tommy Watt boosted the rebound into the corner of the net.

A few minutes later the visitors scored their second tally. Maindment took the ball, following a corner kick, and drove it between the posts. The visitors' total went to three just before the rest interval, when Treemer's flag kick was taken by Maindment, who scored.

Maindment scored again a few minutes after the resumption of play, and the fifth goal came about twenty minutes later, with Smith going the trick.

After complimenting the R.C.N. on their game fight, Captain De Meric, M.V.O. H.M.S. Apollo, presented the handsome silverware to Powell, captain of the winning eleven. Following the fixture, both elevens were dinner guests of the city at the Dominion Hotel. Alderman James Adam presided at the affair.

THE TEAMS WERE:
H.M.S. Apollo — Rockey, Powell (captain), Wild, Davies, Staines, Robinson, Treemer, Smith, Maindment, Axford and Brown.

Royal Canadian Navy — Munde, Healey, Whyte, Hutton, Robinson (captain), Cockhill, Healey, Marr, Watt, De Costa and Walker.

WILL COMPETE IN BIG DERBY

Fifteen Local Anglers Qualify to Participate in Port Angeles Salmon Classic

Having qualified in the semi-finals, fifteen local anglers will journey to Port Angeles on Saturday, September 5, to participate in the annual salmon derby of the Port Angeles Salmon Club which will take place on the following Sunday and Monday, September 6 and 7.

Three launches, the Lumarco, skippered by "Joker" Patton; the Dorothy, owned by William Lucas, and E. Silburn's boat, will transport most of the competitors to the competition waters. Eight of the local boys will compete on Sunday and the remainder will try their luck on Labor Day. The prizes look very attractive to Victoria anglers and they have hopes of bringing some of them back. First prize is a six-cylinder 1936 automobile; second prize is a sixteen and a half foot trolling boat with a twin-cylinder outboard motor; third prize is a twelve and a half foot trolling boat with a single-cylinder outboard motor, and fourth prize is a single-cylinder outboard motor. There are twenty-five other attractive awards.

George I. Warren, Victoria's Publicity Commissioner, who was among the local fishermen who took part in this classic last year, was the only one who managed to get in on the prize list.

When in Victoria to take part in the "Joker" International Cup salmon derby, officials of the Port Angeles Club announced that they are anticipating a record entry this year.

Following are the local anglers who have qualified to enter the derby: "Joker" Patton, Dr. Hugh Clarke, Harry Buckle, Harry Pearl, Jack Falcon, Jack Leatham, Buster McKenzie, Dennis Lalonde, Bill Rowe, Elbeck Wilson, George Simpson, George I. Warren, "Red" Shemilt, E. Silburn and H. H. Cook.

Fred Perry Wins Matches at Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—A large gallery at the Rideau courts saw superior tennis yesterday when Fred Perry, ace of all the amateurs, romped through four singles sets and then joined in a doubles match. They were exhibition games.

The first match for the English star was against Ross Wilson of Toronto, which Perry won 6-4 and 6-5. He then divided two sets against Robert Murray of Montreal 4-6, 6-0. In the doubles Perry teamed up with Wilson against E. C. Connelly and George Leclerc, Ottawa players. The visitors won 10-8 and 6-2.

Both Wilson and Murray furnished opposition that made Perry extend himself. In the doubles he seemed to be having a very enjoyable afternoon.

PATRICK MAY SELL MORENZ

Announces Montreal Canadiens Have Made Offer For Centre Ice Veteran

Montreal, Aug. 25.—Lester Patrick, coach of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, yesterday said Montreal Canadiens had made a definite offer for Howie Morenz, centreman on the New York squad.

"I will not reveal the offer," Patrick said, "but I am thinking over the deal, and it is possible Howie will be back in Montreal before the next season opens."

Morenz gained fame as a hockey player by breaking into the game with Canadiens more than a decade ago.

Patrick stopped off here on his way to New York from his home in Victoria, B.C. He said official announcement on Rangers' choice of fall camp would be made from New York, but it is certain his team will return to Winnipeg.

BRITISH GOLF TEAM ARRIVES

Will Oppose United States Players in Walker Cup Series Sept. 3 and 4

New York, Aug. 25.—A youthful and confident British Walker Cup team arrived in New York yesterday, stopped over long enough to doff their waistscoats, and left at once by bus for Clementon, N.J., where they will meet the United States team over the difficult Pine Valley course, September 3 and 4.

They have been ten days on the water, during which they have practiced hitting balls into the Atlantic. Dr. William Tweedell, captain of the team, explained they took a slow boat purposely because he wanted the team to be well rested so that they could withstand the heat here.

Other members of the team are: H. G. Bentley, J. Morton Dykes, Cecil Ewing, G. Alex Hill, J. D. Langley, Hector Thompson, P. B. Lucas, Jack McLean and Gordon Peters.

The British captain praised the play of Thomson, British amateur champion, making his first trip to this country. "I don't think there is a flaw in his game, and his temperament is superb."

One-third of Berlin Contingent Reaches Montreal Tonight; Lee Orr and Vancouver Swimmers to Take in Events at C.N.E. Exhibition

By ELMER DULMAGE
Quebec, Aug. 25.—About one-third of the Canadian Olympic team passed Quebec today aboard the liner Duchess of Richmond which docks tonight at Montreal. The troops scarcely knew what sort of reception they would receive.

Lee Orr, baby-faced Vancouver sprinter, was the single star performer in this cargo of athletic talent. Such other point-winners as Phil Edwards, Johnny Loaring, Bill Frits and Larry O'Connor, and the only Canadian crowned champion at Berlin, Frank Amyot, Ottawa, will return later.

Orr will get back into training as soon as he gets feet on land. He will compete in the Canadian National Exhibition meet in Toronto, September 3. The tall British Columbia youth, who had to raise money for his passage to Berlin, a professional fifth in the 200-metre dash, has become Canada's No. 1 sprinter.

On the basis of the 21.3 he turned in for 200 metres in the Olympic semi-finals, Orr is the fastest furlong man Canada has ever had. His time was one-fifth of a second better than the Canadian record set up by Howie McPhee, Vancouver, in the July trials.

STAY IN VANCOUVER
A Washington State University student, Orr is considering remaining in Vancouver when he gets home. Like McPhee, who failed to retain his best form in Berlin, Orr is looking ahead to the 1940 games in Tokyo.

Doug Peden, star guard of the basketball team, didn't accompany his mates home. Doug was on the point of becoming a professional six-day bike rider and teaming with his famous brother, Torchy, when the team left Berlin.

Almost as big as the giant Torchy, Doug expected to make his debut in either Berlin or London in September, then return in December for the New York race. Torchy will team with the youngster in his first big start.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg feather-weight boxer, plans turning professional in Chicago as soon as he gets back.

JUNIOR NET PLAY STARTS

Island Championship Tennis Tournament Opens at Duncan Courts

Duncan, Aug. 25.—Play in the annual junior Vancouver Island tennis championship tournament opened at the local courts yesterday, with favored players advancing without very great difficulty.

In the boys' section, H. Bennett, Victoria, indicated he would be a challenger for the throne left vacant by Russ Hays, Vancouver, winner last year, as he defeated Dick Odman of Seattle in a smart duel.

Byron Page and H. Sequem, Seattle, are seeded high in the boys' draw, while Kay Staples, Duncan, winner last year, and Dof Marier, Vancouver, are most highly favored in the girls' division.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Results of yesterday's play follow: Boys under 18—B. Page defeated J. Smith, 6-1, 6-0; J. Crofton defeated N. Beard, 6-1, 6-0; H. Bennett defeated J. Leask, 6-3, 7-5; H. Bennett defeated D. Odman, 6-4, 6-3.

Girls under 18—K. Staples defeated Winsome Morris, 6-0, 6-0; Helen Ussow defeated Shirley Gooding, 7-5, 6-2; Dot Marier defeated Kay Green, 6-1, 6-2; Suzanne Hadwen defeated Wendy Pinhorn, 7-5, 6-1; Diana Stanier defeated Millicent Fox, 6-2, 6-2; Virginia May defeated Nancy Howard, 6-2, 6-1; Eileen Swayne defeated Sheila Bailey, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

Boys' singles under 16—H. Gwynne defeated N. Beard, 6-0, 6-1; D. Odman defeated C. Baker, 6-0, 6-2; S. Smith defeated K. Eaton, 6-1, 6-3. Girls' singles under 15—Marjorie MacBean defeated Paula Jonas, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5.

New York Giants Move Into Deadlock With St. Louis Cards

Move Into First When St. Louis Suffers Defeat

Cards Walloped 17 to 5 By Pittsburgh as New York Has Day of Rest

CHICAGO CUBS ARE EXTENDED

The National League pennant race may be decided between now and September 4, although the season still has more than a month to run.

The stage was set for a "crucial" tour yesterday, when the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the St. Louis Cardinals an unmerciful 17 to 5 drubbing and sent them into a tie with the idle New York Giants for first place.

Today the Giants, showing no sign of the late-season "crackups" that have marked their other campaigns, open an important trip through the western half of the circuit. If Bill Terry's team should run into a big winning streak it could almost wrap up the flag and bring it home.

Paul Deane, making his first start since July 4, showed no signs of the sore arm which has been bothering him, but he could not keep the Cards on top. Given a comfortable lead by a four-run blast that drove Ralph Birkner out in the third, he weakened in the fourth and retired before an attack that tied the count.

ROUGH TREATMENT

Ed Heusser was the victim of a six-run blast in the next inning, and the Bucco bats played the same tune against George Earnshaw and Flint Rhem to pile up a total of twenty-five blows.

The Chicago Cubs, only three and a half games off the pace, had a stiff struggle with Cincinnati's Reds, finally winning in the tenth, 2 to 1.

In the only other game on the big league programme, the Chicago White Sox hammered out an 8 to 4 decision over Detroit's Tigers.

COAST LEAGUE

Refreshed by a day's rest, Coast League teams resumed play today with six teams hot after four top places that will assure them a part in the Shaughnessy plan post-season playoff.

Portland, with its remaining three series on the home lot, is almost certain to get into the playoff. The Beavers beat off against the San Francisco Seals tonight.

Seattle, playing all but its final series at home, meets the tough Los Angeles club in the opener tonight.

Oakland, away from home the rest of the year unless Sacramento transfers its final series to Emeryville, meets San Diego in what promises to be the most exciting seven games of the week.

The Missions, who play Sacramento at home, got a good break when the St. Louis Cardinals recalled Henry Phipps, the Cisco Tex, rookie pitcher, yesterday. Phipps won ten straight until he ran into San Diego last week.

REX CAREY IS AGAIN BEATEN

Loses Nod to Stoker Perks, H.M.S. Apollo, in Main Event of Boxing Card

Falling his opponent with hard lefts to the face in his tornado-like attacks, Stoker Perks, wily fighter from H.M.S. Apollo, scored his second straight victory over Rex Carey, middleweight champion of British Columbia, yesterday evening, when he was awarded the unanimous decision of the judges in the main event of the Victoria Athletic Club's boxing card at the Athletic Park.

Perks literally sprang at Carey when he came in on his attacks, which nearly always enabled him to score with a number of left jabs. This appeared to be the only way the British sailor could get at Carey, who had the advantage in weight, height and reach, and thus he kept up these rush tactics from start to finish. In the fourth round Carey went after the sailor and crowded him so that he had little time for a rush. Carey made his best showing in this round.

RALLIES TO WIN
Rallying in the final two rounds, Corporal Castled, H.M.S. Apollo, secured the nod over his fellow shipmate, Stoker Matthews, in the semi-main event. Matthews, younger and less experienced than his opponent, held the upper hand in the first two rounds and pranced around raining blows upon him. Castled had a fine cover-up system, however, and his opponent's blows failed to elicit much most of the time. The victor came off the defensive in the third round and soon had the blood flowing from his opponent's nose and kept up his offensive tactics to the finish.

Outpunching his opponent all the way, Able Seaman Chaplin, H.M.S. Apollo, won by a decision over Private Watts, P.P.C.L.I., in a welterweight tussle. Although floored consistently Watts always came back for more, and thus prevented his opponent from getting a technical knockout. The 800 fans gave him a big hand.

An evenly-matched pair, Private Ford, P.P.C.L.I., and Stoker Hole, H.M.S. Apollo, welterweight class boxers, fought to a draw, while in a middleweight tussle Private Pocock, Work Point boxer, threw too many gloves for Marine Warren, H.M.S. Apollo, and scored a knockout in the second round of their scheduled four-round mix.

Billy Knowles, local glove thrower, was victor over Edward Sead by decision in the local preliminary.

Louis Callan refereed all bouts.

SOFTBALLERS PLAY TO TIE

In the final game of the Peden Cup knockout softball series the Victoria Longshoremen and the Esquimalt Meat Market battled to a six all draw yesterday evening at Bullen Park. The fixture will be replayed in the near future.

The season's biggest upset was seen at Victoria West Park when the Togo Cleaners trounced the Silent Glows, lower island A section champs, 9 to 2 in the semi-final round of the Poodle Dog Cafe Cup series. The game was a replay of a previous drawn fixture. A barrage of base knocks and five runs sent Lloyd Jones to the showers after he had started on the mound for the busmen and Chuck Turner replaced him. After holding the cleaners in check for two innings, Turner was nicked for two runs in the fifth.

Local Tracksters Seek B.C. Honors

Y.M.C.A. Squad Leaves For Vancouver to Take Part in Provincial Championships Tomorrow; Addison, Dale, Cunningham and Andrews to Compete

After a warm-up in the Navy track and field meet on Saturday, and in fine condition as a result of two months' of steady training, a squad of local flying Y runners left today for Vancouver, where they will take on the mainland's best in the provincial track and field championships at the terminal city tomorrow.

Headed by Joe Addison, Victoria's flying cop, the squad included Bill Dale, Chuck Cunningham, Paul Rowe, Fred Smith, Porky Andrews, Virginia Hall, Betty Crowder and Anna Peden. Warren W. Martin, president of the Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club, accompanied the team.

The local stars gave a good account of themselves at the British Columbia championships held here last August and are expected to do as well tomorrow. Dale is odds-on favorite in the half-mile, while Addison should take the quarter with little trouble. Paul Rowe and Freddy Smith, most promising junior sprinter in the team, will compete in the sprints and should show up well in those events. Porky Andrews is Victoria's threat for the broad jump and possibly will enter the weight events and one of the sprints.

On the slim legs of Virginia Hall, Betty Crowder and Anna Peden rest the island city's hopes in the women's events. Of these, Virginia Hall is the most likely to come home with the honors.

FIELD TRIALS WILL BE HELD

Victoria Gun-dog Club Will Stage Competitions on September 6

The fall trials of the Victoria and District Gun-dog Club will take place on September 6 instead of August 30 as originally planned. The change was made to avoid conflicting with the bench show of the Nanaimo Kennel Club, which will be held on August 29.

The field trials will be confined to setters and pointers. A junior stake and an all-age stake will be run. The all-age stake will be judged by Thomas Dickie, while Leslie Dickie will make his initial appearance as a judge in the junior event, which is open to dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1935.

The trials are attracting an increasingly large number of dogs, and the class of bird-work being shown by the contestants shows a great improvement over the earlier trials put on by the club.

It is rumored that a number of likely prospects are being prepared for the coming event, and a record entry is expected.

"Dry Ice" Cooling Danger Minimized
Washington, Aug. 25.—Health authorities here do not see any hazard in a make-shift air-conditioning practice now in vogue in the torrid mid-west. The custom there is for motorists to refrigerate their cars by putting a block of "dry ice" on the floor and shutting all the windows. As the "ice melts" or evaporates, the air inside the car is cooled. A store-

MAGISTRATE ENDS TERM

George Jay Retires Today;
Henry Hall on Bench Tomorrow

A clean sheet greeted Magistrate George Jay on his last day as police magistrate in the City of Victoria this morning.

In the little room, from which he has for years entered court to the constable's call "Order in the court," the man who will be seventy-five years old tomorrow and who has occupied the magistrate's chair for just over twenty-nine years, rested today.

Tomorrow his post will be taken over by Henry C. Hall, K.C.

"There are a lot of books I shall read," the magistrate said when asked his plans for the future. He has left his hobbies behind. The school board, of which he was chairman for a record number of years, is no longer open to him, even if he wished to return to that work. He is no longer a property owner in the city.

He will, however, maintain his interest in the school children at their games, he says. For years he has been a constant and enthusiastic follower of school rugby, track and field and other athletics. He still intends to watch them from the sidelines.

Regarding other activities, he is doubtful. "I'll just sit and think," he remarked jocularly today.

In Des Moines, Ia., specialists in "dry ice" for refrigeration have found that "dry ice" is solidified carbon dioxide, so when the "ice melts," this gas passes into the air. This gas is normally present in the air in very small amounts. If the amount in the air reaches 1 per cent, animals and men begin to breathe a little faster and deeper. With 2 per cent carbon dioxide in the air, this effect is considerably increased, the breathing being much faster and deeper. At 15 per cent this effect is reversed and the breathing is slowed. Breathing air with this much or more carbon dioxide for a few hours would make a person feel sick and would be dangerous.

However, long before this concentration is reached, Dr. R. R. Sayers of the United States Public Health Service here explained, the motorist who refrigerates his car with dry ice will find himself breathing so uncomfortably fast that he will open his windows, allowing the gas to escape and thus averting any danger to himself or other occupants of the car.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—A mass of administrative tasks faced the government today when Prime Minister King opened a series of cabinet meetings at which he hopes to deal with all major questions before departing for Geneva September 12. At least three sessions a week will be held until the Prime Minister sails to head the Canadian delegation at the League of Nations Assembly.

Members of the government, widely scattered during midsummer, are all back in Ottawa with the exception of Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who has just concluded a trade mission through Europe. Mr. Euler will arrive home next week.

Legislative changes to be made effective include reorganization of Canadian broadcasting control, assumption of majority ownership and control of the Bank of Canada, removal of the trustee board of the Canadian National Railways and restoration of the board of directors, completion of the merger of departments, appointment of permanent personnel for the National Harbors Board, and completion of the set-up for the National Commission of Employment and Relief.

Appointments to high office include a judge of the supreme court of Canada, a chief justice for Ontario, several Lieutenant-Governors, numerous bench appointments and all the many appointments involved in the legislation already mentioned.

Other duties awaiting the government have to do with policies of trade arising from investigations and conferences carried on by the ministers who visited Europe this summer, the attitude to be taken with respect to proposed reorganization of the League of Nations, international commitments and defence. An Imperial conference will be held next spring and there will be questions on that score to be settled tentatively in advance.

Some preparation will also be made for the session of Parliament which will open early in January next year in the hope it may be completed in time to permit the Prime Minister, and all others who desire, to attend the coronation of Edward VIII in May.

BIGGER ARMY VOTE SOON IN JAPAN

Associated Press
Paris, Aug. 25.—The Ministry of Colonies today ordered investigation of rumors that Abd el Krim, exiled warlord of the Rif, had escaped from the island of Reunion. The newspaper Le Matin published reports the Moroccan chieftain had eluded French authorities and fled the island in the Indian Ocean for an "unknown destination."

No official reports thus far received, the ministry said.

Abd el Krim, who spent years fighting Spain and France in Morocco, was sent ten years ago to Reunion, east of the island of Madagascar. He said recently he was tired of his long exile and hinted he would cause no further trouble if his French captors would free him.

Freighter Holed Off Race Rocks

Atlantic City, With Engine-room and No. 4 Hold Flooded, Being Towed to Esquimalt By Salvage King and Salvage Queen

Escorted by two salvage steamers, the "Salvage King and Salvage Queen," the British freighter Atlantic City, which punched holes in her bottom off Race Rocks at 11.25 o'clock this morning, was heading for Esquimalt-drydock at 2.30 o'clock.

Latest wireless reports stated the engine-room and No. 4 hold of the Atlantic City were flooded.

The Atlantic City was approaching Race Rocks this morning to pick up her pilot when she bumped on rocks. She was "grounded" but a few minutes later the jagged pinnacles holed her sufficiently to permit sea water to pour in.

A SOS call was sent and within five minutes Salvage King was underway and heading for Race Rocks. When she got alongside Atlantic City it was found that water was making such headway that further assistance would be needed. Officials of the Pacific Salvage Company immediately dispatched the Salvage Queen.

Temporary patches were stretched over the damaged part and the tow to Esquimalt started.

The Atlantic City was built in 1920 at the Stockton plant of the Roper Shipbuilding Company. She is registered at 4,238 tons with a length of 411 feet, a beam of 54 feet and a depth of 33 feet. She is a unit of the Reardon Smith Line, and her home port is Bideford.

INSPIRATIONAL TALK IS HEARD

Roy Perry Tells Kiwanians
"Hats Off to '35 But Coats Off to '36"

"Hats off to '35 and coats off to '36" was the subject of an inspirational address delivered by Roy A. Perry, prominent Kiwanian from Portland, before the Victoria Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

"We're going to have to buck up or back up," he declared. "So I think it is about time that we got down to business and peeled off our coats."

"We must get away from yesterday and forget about the dreams of tomorrow and get down to today," he added. "We don't hit the mark because we don't pull the trigger."

President Roosevelt when he had been asked whether he thought the United States would get out of the depression or not had replied, "yes, if it wanted to." This applied to every individual businessman, Mr. Perry said.

The speaker showed an old coin on whose back was inscribed "mind your business."

"I wouldn't have paid 300 times the face value for that coin if I did not think there was a lesson to be learned from it," he said. "If we mind our business, our business will mind us."

He told the story of Tom Lee, the colored man who saved thirty lives when a Mississippi boat sank, and explained his heroism by saying, "I just kept going after them and getting them."

"This applies to our lives as well," Mr. Perry said. "How many of us go after every prospect?"

The speaker remarked on the wonderful work the Victoria and Island's Publicity Bureau was doing: "It just covers the United States like a tent," he said.

Before the address, William Luney, Richard Williams and Harold Digson reported on the recent district convention of Kiwanis in Seattle.

All of them stressed the disappointingly small number of Victorians present and said they missed a lot of fun.

Harold Digson said the convention was the biggest of its kind, there being over 1,300 registrations. The Northwest was to be reckoned he said and divided into two new divisions. The convention also urged that all clubs take greater interest in political and public questions.

Who's Who At Hotels

Hon. John and Hon. Alistair Buchanan, sons of the Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir, left the Empress Hotel shortly before 10.30 o'clock this morning to join their Excellencies aboard H.M.S. Apollo, which took the viceregal party to Vancouver.

On their departure from the hotel, where they had been staying, since their return from Campbell River on Sunday evening, they complimented J. K. Hodges, manager, on the excellence of the accommodation and service.

Daniel C. Durland, president of the Canadian General Electric Company and also of the Canadian Allis-Chalmers Company, was due to arrive at the Empress Hotel this afternoon from Vancouver.

Mr. Durland is a veteran of the electrical business, having been connected with the General Electric Company (U.S.A.) and its affiliates since 1894.

He is a native of New York, and makes his home in Toronto.

The Empress Hotel this afternoon will be kept occupied catering to 127 members of the Oak Leaves Tour, who will arrive from Seattle at 12.50 o'clock and sail at midnight for Vancouver.

The Oak Leaves tourists make weekly visits to Victoria.

Many surprising questions are asked at the Empress Hotel desk from day to day. One of the strangest of all came this morning when a visitor inquired whether it was possible to take a sun bath on the hotel roof.

Anyone familiar with Victoria's skyline knows that the Empress Hotel roof is the most precipitous of all.

A slight slacking off in the number of tourists registering at Victoria's hotels has been noted since the week-end. However, the Empress Hotel, which at the end of last week was host to the Lord Mayor of London and his party, and over the week-end to several notables, including Sir Neville Wilkinson, creator of Titania's Palace, and Lord Hyndley, commercial adviser to the mines department of the British Board of Trade and director of the Bank of England, was kept busy this morning with the arrival of Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R. and a large party of directors.

Californians who are making their headquarters at the Empress Hotel include Mr. and Mrs. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. Healy, J. C. Two carloads of bananas arrived in Victoria last night.

The market for California oranges is stronger and there is a firm undertone in the grapefruit and lemon markets, wholesalers report.

The Okanagan is still exporting large quantities of vine-ripened cantaloupes, which are said to be in good condition. A shipment arrived on wholesale row yesterday and another is expected before the end of the week.

A shipment of seedless, ribbers and red malaga grapes was unloaded this morning. Everbearing strawberries are being received daily.

Rochester peaches have passed off the market, and Alberta peaches are now being imported. Dealers say the peach season is at its height this week and preserving should be done immediately. Small size peaches, suitable for preserving, are selling at the lowest price, although the weight per case does not vary.

Drybelt tomatoes have dropped in price this week. Green and red peppers and pickling onions are on the market.

Cabbage is scarce, and wholesalers say local farmers are getting good prices for what they can produce.

The butter and egg market is holding firm, with eggs at thirty-seven, thirty-six and thirty-four cents a dozen.

Two fellows who had dined rather well entered a dance hall and inquired for the smoking-room.

"Through that door and down four steps," said the manager.

Opening the first door they came to, one stepped out—and dropped down the elevator shaft.

"Whassa doin', Jack?" shouted his partner as he peered into the black depths.

"Lookin' for a match, Bill," came the answer. "And, shay, look out for that first step!"

FLAGTIME IN SURPRISE WIN

Captures Fourth Race at Brighouse to Pay $21.05; Helton Is Star

Vancouver, Aug. 25. — After riding two winners in earlier races, Jockey George Helton brought H. M. Fullerton's Wracia home for a one and a half length victory over a select field in the feature race at Brighouse Park track yesterday and graduated from an apprentice to a full-fledged jockey.

After piloting Ina Mae to victory in the second race and riding Happony to a win in the third, Helton sent the Fullerton entry to the fore in the stretch in the fifth, overtaking Punko and Broadway, Rocky, who finished in that order. It was Helton's fourth win as an apprentice and entitled him to graduate.

Flagtime, speedy three-year-old from the H. Nutter stable, overtook the leaders at the halfway mark in the six-furlong fourth race and galloped to a two-length win to pay $21.05, $6.55 and $4.45 in the pari-mutuel machines, highest price of the day.

The daily double, Ina Mae to Happony, returned $63.45, and the one-two bet, Speedy Al and May Roam, paid off at $18.20.

Two years in production, "Modern Times," Charlie Chaplin's latest comedy, comes to the Oak Bay Theatre and continues today and Wednesday. There is also a matinee performance Wednesday afternoon. The story, which was written by Chaplin, is that of a factory worker in a huge steel plant, going through a mechanical routine of tightening bolts on a moving track. This nightmare of cold, shining steel, mammoth dynamos, levers and switches, provides a veritable paradise for Chaplin's imitable brand of comedy.

PLAZA THEATRE

"My Concertina," new hit tune by Jack Scholl and Phil Boutejle, is introduced by Fred MacMurray in his new comedy-romance with Carole Lombard, "The Princess Comes Across," now being shown at the Plaza Theatre. The story marks the first time MacMurray's singing voice has been heard in motion pictures. Cast as a concertina-playing orchestra leader, he serenades Miss Lombard with the tune shortly after the pair meet about a trans-Atlantic liner.

ATLAS THEATRE

In his new RKO Radio picture, "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford," now showing at the Atlas Theatre, William Powell, like Mark Twain, has the interesting experience of reading about his own death.

Jean Arthur, his co-star, arranges the hoax, as a protective measure against a real funeral. Incidentally, "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford" is the first picture Powell and Miss Arthur have done together since they were teamed in "The Greene Murder Case," in 1929.

A man who rarely visited a town of any size drove into one with his son, travelling in a decrepit car. Climbing out of the car in one of the main streets, the old man appeared fascinated by the pavement. He scraped his feet on the hard surface, and, turning to his son, remarked:

"Well I don't blame 'em for building a town here. The ground is too darned hard to plough, anyhow."

Mr. And Mrs.

MRS. GADDER WANTS ME TO GO MOTORING WITH HER. DO YOU THINK I OUGHT TO GO? WHY, IT'S UP TO YOU.

BUT SHE MIGHT WANT ME TO STOP FOR LUNCH AND TEA. DO YOU THINK I OUGHT TO LET HER PAY FOR ME? WELL, THAT'S AS YOU FEEL ABOUT IT.

SHE'S INVITING ME, OF COURSE, BUT I DON'T WANT TO BE UNDER ANY OBLIGATIONS TO HER.

USE YOUR OWN JUDGEMENT.

DO AS YOU LIKE. GEE WHIZ! WHAT A HUSBAND! WHEN I ASK FOR ADVICE, YOU NEVER GIVE IT. WHEN I DON'T, YOU TALK BY THE HOUR.

WELL, I WONDER WHAT THAT PEST WANTS.

WELL, WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?

I UNDERSTAND YOU HAVE BEEN MAKING DISPARAGING REMARKS ABOUT ME.

WHY, I SAID YOU WERE A FINE GENTLEMAN.

WELL, I'M SORRY I CAN'T SAY THE SAME THING FOR YOU.

IF YOU TOLD AS BIG A LIE AS I DID, YOU COULD!

Tarzan And the Leopard Men

Tarzan looked sternly at the fear-stricken and demanding again: "Now, do you think, did this warrior of your tribe meet death?" Gowando shrugged: "It is plain, O Great Swana, that he was killed by one of the terrible fanged beasts of the jungle."

The elders of the tribe seized upon this explanation with eager grins of approval and relief. "True, true!" they cried. "The marks of the claws are plain. Terrible is the claw of the lion. Terrible is the talon of the panther. It was thus he died."

The ape-man scowled angrily. "Since when have the wise Gowando and his elders become fools? You know well that the great beasts do not kill except for food. What they kill, they eat. And the body of your fellow tribesman bears no trace of tooth or fang."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am one of the men who is supposedly married to a perfect woman, and who would be severely censured and condemned if he left his wife. She is thrifty, energetic, unselfish and has worked by my side to help me get a start in life against the odds of the depression.

But the fly in the ointment is this: With all her good looks and good qualities she is nothing but a business partner to me. She is as unromantic, unaffectionate and unsentimental as a post. I sometimes feel that I could be happy if I were married to the plainest woman on earth if only she would show me a little affection and regard me as something else than just a fellow worker. My wife is strictly business as far as I am concerned. She never has any time for me and no desire for my company. She prefers the society of her women friends.

Now what am I going to do? I want to do what is right, but I don't want to live my life this way. Shall I stick the thing out or ask for my freedom and go a-hunting for a woman with a little less brains and a little more love? I am not a philanderer and do not intend to be, but I am seeking an honorable solution of my problem.

A DISHEARTENED MAN.

Answer—If your wife regards you as merely a business partner, probably she would not object to dissolving the firm, provided she got her share of the profits. She has put her head and her back but not her heart into marriage, so you would not feel that you were causing her any sorrow by withdrawing from a relationship in which you have found such bitter disappointment.

At any rate, the thing to do is to have a frank talk with her and bring the matter into the open. It may be that what little flurry of sentiment led her into marriage has passed and she would be glad to have a man around the house. Or it may be, on the other hand, that she really does love you and that in her passionate anxiety to help you financially she has subordinated everything else to that. She has concentrated her every interest and thought on the business instead of on you. She has had no time for you because every minute was given to thoughts of money-making. Instead of whispering tender words to you she has been planning sales talks.

If this is the case, then you can wake her up and bring her back from her absorption in business by telling her that however much you have appreciated her help, that it was not to get a supererogatory or an expert buyer or a wizard at bookkeeping that made you marry her. You could hire a secretary, but you married because you wanted a wife to give you something that could not be paid for—love and tenderness and companionship.

Women, you know, are extremists. Many of them, when they go into business, get so obsessed by money-making that they have no thought or interest for anything else in life. Perhaps your wife has acquired this mania, but it may be, as I have said, that she has just forgotten that success in marriage can mean more to a man than success in business, and that in her eagerness to help you financially she has lost sight of the fact that she is neglecting you spiritually.

It is a curious thing that women should think that heart-hunger is an exclusive feminine complaint, and that those who wall so bitterly about cold and indifferent husbands should themselves be so often human refrigerators. They want their husbands to make a fuss over them, to flatter them, to assure them continually of their affection, but it is the rare wife who realizes that her husband is hungry and starving for love and that she wants to be petted and spoiled and have his wife tell him that she thinks he is just the most wonderful creature in the world. Men crave love just as much as women do, and you never hear of one who gets plenty of it at home hunting it abroad.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of twenty, very much in love with a boy I have known all of my life, but my father isn't willing for us to marry because he thinks we are too much alike in many ways. This boy is very selfish and hard to get along with. He is jealous and doesn't want me to have friends because he is afraid I will be more popular than he. My father sent me away to school thinking I would forget the boy, but I haven't. Sometimes I think maybe I have got over my love for him, but when I see him I know he is the only one for me and that if he married anybody else I wouldn't be happy. This boy is smart and would be a good provider. What should I do?

A GIRL.

Answer—You don't say whether the traits you and the young man have in common are selfish and jealousy and vanity and such hard to get along with. If they are, you would certainly be wise to take your father's advice and not marry him because if you do you'll fight like the Kilkeny cats.

When selfishness meets selfishness the fur is bound to fly. When a mean suspicious disposition encounters another one equally mean and suspicious, there is nothing so base and vile that they won't accuse each other of. When a stupid, stubborn, stiff-necked determination not to give in and not to adapt itself to another comes up against its duplicate, there is bound to be trouble and plenty of it.

Personally, I consider it a pity that selfish, spoiled, jealous girls and boys can't always be made to marry each other. They would be so ideally matched, and if they fought each other to death it would be a good riddance. Also, they would save the good, kind, unselfish people, who generally do marry them, such a lot of misery.

But the only chance of staying married that the bad dispositions have is to marry some poor, helpless, unfortunate creature who will be unselfish enough to give in to them, patient enough to bear with them and martyr enough to endure all of the tyrannies and oppressions they put upon them.

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily's Pleasant Evening

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Wait a minute! Hold on! Wait a second!" shouted Uncle Wiggily. He hopped down the wooden path near his hollow stump bungalow as fast as he could hop.

"I wonder what the matter with Uncle Wiggily?" barked Jackie Bow-Wow.

"Maybe his bungalow is on fire and he's calling to a water bug to help put it out," said Peetie.

"I don't see any smoke," Jackie barked, looking toward the bungalow.

Uncle Wiggily shouted again: "Hi, there, Twisty! Wait for me!"

"Oh, he's just running after Mr. Twisty," said Peetie. He and his brother watched until Uncle Wiggily caught up to the fat gentleman pig. Then the dogs began playing their game of hide the bone.

"Oh, Wiggily! I didn't hear you at first," said Mr. Twisty, as he turned around and saw the rabbit gentleman hopping to join him. "Is anything the matter?"

"Not at all," said Mr. Twisty. "I just want to invite you over to my bungalow for a pleasant evening. We'll have lemonade and drink lemonade and talk after the children get to bed. Will you come?"

"Surely I will, and thank you for the invitation," said the pig. "I'll be there."

INVITE MR. BOW-WOW, TOO

"I'm going now to invite Mr. Bow-Wow," said Uncle Wiggily. "We shall have a good time together, talking about the times when we were boys together."

That evening three old animal gentlemen gathered in Uncle Wiggily's yard. Nurse Jane Fussy Wussy made them a pitcher of lemonade with strawberries in it and they sat around a table as darkness began to fall and the lightning bugs began to twinkle.

"Why do you look up your roof so often, Wiggily?" asked Mr. Bow-Wow.

"That's what I wonder," grunted the pig. "Is there something on your roof, Wiggily?"

"Gee, I'm building a nest on my roof," said the dog gentleman. "But I suppose she knows best. 'Do you remember, Wiggily, when we were boys how you pushed me in the duck pond once?'"

"Indeed, I do," laughed the rabbit, taking a sip of lemonade.

"It's real holly, talking like this and having a pleasant evening," said Mr. Bow-Wow. "I just love—such!"

"—do you mean—yes, love—such!" laughed the pig. "Do you mean lemon—" ouch!" and Mr. Twisty jumped out of his chair.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Aren't you having a good time or do you want some more—OUCH!" he yelled loudly.

"What's going on out there?" called Mrs. Longears.

"The mosquitoes biting us!" barked Mr. Bow-Wow. "They are fierce tonight. The lightning bugs are showing them where to bite us."

"Ouch! Ouch! Ouch!" cried the three friends as more mosquitoes hit them. Uncle Wiggily's pleasant evening was being spoiled. But suddenly there was a rush of wings from the roof. A shrill cry was heard and a voice said:

"I'll get rid of the mosquitoes for you, Uncle Wiggily. I'll catch and eat them. Then the bull bat, or mosquito hawk, swooped to and fro through the air, as these birds do, with widely opened mouth, catching all the biting mosquitoes, which are the food these birds eat."

Soon not a mosquito was left and Uncle Wiggily and his friends had a most pleasant evening with lemonade. And the garden rakes will comb the hairbrush so it can go to the June Wiggily's party. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's umbrella.

Motor Plant Used To Make Munitions

Badelona, Spain, Aug. 26.—Catalan officials disclosed yesterday evening the General Motors plant, seized early in the civil war by the government of this autonomous region, had been turned into a munitions factory.

One unit, under the direction of army technicians, is turning out bombs, while another is producing apparatus for carrying and releasing bombs from civil planes, officials said.

LIGHTNING SCORCHES DOG

Burnt River, Ont., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Clara Hodgson's white collie was scorched during an electrical storm here. Lightning struck the chimney of the house and followed a telephone wire to the woodshed, where the dog was standing. The collie was scorched a dark brown.
